CONGRESSMAN MONEY GOT THE WORST OF IT

His Friends Think That Hall Will Either Have To Apologize or Fight a Duel.

Washington, April 23 .- (Special.)-The marble floors of the capitol building were again stained with congressional gore to of Mississippi, furnished the fluid from his brow, which had been badly gashed by a glass sponge-holder, hurled at him by the trawny U. S. Hall, of Missouri. It was probably the bloodlest fight which has occurred in the capitol building between statesmen, and but for interference it would have been a fight to the death. And it may yet be. Mr. Money is laid up at his hotel for rerairs, but will perhaps demand satisfac of a duel. If Hall will not apologize those who know Money best think he will cowhide the Missouri man or else shoot it out with him

Cause of the Row. The fight was the result of a committee room dispute. The naval personnel bill was being discussed in committee.

The two men were arrayed on opposite ides of the question. Hall made a remark to the effect that no man could honestly advocate the side of the question Money ad-

Money took offense and denounced Hall as a liar and a scoundrel, with embellishments. Hall grasped the sponge-holder and hurled it across the table, striking Money with great force.

The Mississippi man responded with an inkstand, but it missed its mark. Chairs were then used as weapons and there was wild commotion in the committee room. Until the heavy glass inkstands and other projectiles gave out the other members present crawled under the table or sheltered themselves with chairs as shields. Then they interfered and held fast the combatants, leading them from the room.

Mr. Money left a trail of blood in his, path, while Hall was enhurt. The Mississippian was bandaged up and carried to his hotel, while Hall appeared on the floor for a few moments and then left the capitol.

Efforts Towards Peace. way be further results tomorrow Tonight both men are in consultation with their friends, who are endeavoring to amicably adjust the affair. Mr. Money, however, wants an apology or satisfaction. Money is a man of undoubted courage. Hall is a great brawny fellow who may or may not have his full quota of courage,

INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS.

The Bill Was Discussed, Amended and

Passed. Washington, April 23 - Unanimous conser was asked by Mr. Call to have the joint resolution, heretofore offered by him, requesting the president to send ships of war to Cuba for the protection of American citi-zens, taken up for consideration and action; but on the appeal of Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, not to press the request at this time, and not to interfere with the In-dian appropriation bill, Mr. Call said he would withhold his request for the present, but gave notice that as soon as the Indian appropriation bill is disposed of he will move to have his joint resolution taken u

The Indian appropriation bill was taken up. The question was on an amendmen of yesterday by Mr. Platt, of Connecticut appropriating $50,000 for the Cherokee com on, and instructing the commis with reference to the breaking up of the tribal relations of the Indians, and to the distribution of their lands in severalty. A point of order against the amendment, tion bill, was made and argued by Mr

After Mr. George had spoken for an hou on his point of order, his argument was criticised by Mr. Vest, who said that du ing his twenty years' service in the senate he must have heard five hundred definitions of general legislation, but he had only known one of those definitions to be crys-tallized in the practice of the senate, and that one was that the senate always finds what it does not want to do to be "ge regislation," and vice versa. Passing to the main question Mr. Vest spoke of the Indians being allowed to constitute ther selves a national nuisance, and he described the Indian territory as a pest house, legally and morally, within the public domain a being a harbor of refuge for criminals, as having caused a depreciation of property in the adjoining states by one-third. The debate was continued at much length, Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, denouncing the rule of crime and outrage in the Indian Terri-

Mr. Bate, of Tennessee, placed all the responsibility for that state of things on the bummers, land-grabbers, and thieves who seek to rob the Indians.

Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, asserted that more brutal and savage conditions existed in the Indian territory than in Russia, Armenia or Cuba.

Finally the whole question was disposed of by the vice president sustaining the of by the vice president sustaining the point of order and ruling Mr. Platt's amend-ment out of order. The bill was then pass-ed and a conference with the house was crdered.

The bill as passed by the house carried appropriations amounting to $8,420,445. As reported by the senate committee on appropriations this amount was reduced to $7,413.806, the great item in this reduction being one of $1,680,000 for "payment on the Cherokee outlet purchase." This item, however, was restored by the senate. The three principal items of the increase were appropriations of $200,000 for surveying lands in the Indian territory; $200,000 for the support of day and industrial schools, and $10,000 for school buildings and school sites.

The appropriations for the Indian service for the current fiscal year were $5,762,515. The bill for the next year, as it passed the senate today, appropriates over $9,000,000.

The sundry civil appropriation bill was taken up and went over till tomorrow.

Senate bills were passed as follows: Appropriating $190,000 for a public building, at Nashus, N. H.; appropriating $500,000 for a public building at Salt Lake city, and $185,000 for one at Ogden, Utah, as well as an appropriation of $150,000 for a public building at Portsmouth, Va.

Cessation of Work. Washington, April 23.—The republicans of the senate favor an early adjournment ard the earlier after the appropriation bills are out of the way the better it will please This sentiment was developed this norning at the caucus held for the purpos of determining the order of business. Af-ter a short discussion Mr. Sherman, chair-man of the caucus, was asked to appoint a committee on order of business, which will decide upon what matters outside of apprepriation bills shall be brought up for

The discussion showed that the almost unanimous opinion of the republicans was that nothing in the shape of legislation that will be contested or produce protracted debate should be pressed for action. An adjournment should be had, it was thought, by May 15th and 15 by May 18th, and the committee which Mr Sherman will appoint will bear this date in mind when it comes to making up the of business. It is hardly believed that the adjournment can be had at so early a date, but the first of June is sug-gested as the day upon which a final adburnment can be taken without difficulty. Resolutions Urging Peace Between England and the United States. Washington, April 23.—The national ar-pitration convention held two sessions today. The greater part of the time in each was given up to speech making, but at the earlier one the following resolution

J. Crosby, Maine; H. duBignon, Georgia; C. McGill, of New Jersey; O. R. Huntley, of Alabama; W. H. Taft, of Ohio.

The following resolutions were offered:

"I. That in the judgment of this conference, religion, humanity and justice, as well as the material intersts of civil society, demand the immediate establishment between the United States and Great Britain of a permanent system of arbitration;

"2. That it is earnestly recommended to our government, so soon as it is advised of a corresponding disposition on the part of the British government to negotiate Alabama; W. H. Taft, of Ohio.

of the British government to negotiate a treaty providing for the widest practicable application of the method of arbitra-steps on the part of the United States as will conduce to the in view."

During a protracted discussion which followed ex-Senator Edmunds left the chair and addressed the convention in favor of offering arbitration to all civilized nations. He concluded that unless some expression were adopted looking to recognition of other nations it would be felt that England and the United States were allies, but that other nations were excluded from the alliance. Mr. Edmunds suggested adding after the words Great Britain, "and as far as possible with other civilized nations."

Mr. Graham, of Virginia, proposed to modify the amendment of Mr. Edmunds so as to provide for extending the opportunity of arbitration to all civilized nations.

Mr. Edmunds accepted this amendment and it was adopted. Messrs. Edmunds, Curry, Angel, Hubbard and Hitchocok were appointed a committee to lay the resolutions adopted before the president.

In the evening a mass meeting was held at Allen's opera house and speeches in favor of arbitration were delivered. It was intended to make strenuous efforts to secure President Cleveland's presence at this meeting, but his absence from the cify prevented this plan being carried out.

The murderous burglar escaped after the assault and O'Neil was subsequently suspected and arrested.

VERY NEAR ENOUGH VOTES.

The Admission of Women to M. E. Conferences as Delegates Voted On. Baltimore, Md., April 23.-The propositi admit women as lay delegates to the opal church has been defeated by a nar row margin. The vote of the North Dako ta conference which has just been received was the last to be taken on the proposition With that vote included in the table the vote is shown to be 7,515 for the admission of women and 2,529 against. According to a provision of the discipline It is necessary for a proposition to change any of the restrictive rules of the church o receive the support of three-fourths of the members and two-thirds of the members of the general conference. As the total vote was 10,044 it would have been necessary for the supporters of the amend-ments to have cast 7,533 ballots to win. They lost by eighteen votes. A complica-tion of the question will be caused by the presence of three women at the next Meth-odist Episcopal general conference who have been elected as lay delegates and who will apply for admission to the conference. One of these is the wife of President Bashford, of the Ohio Wesleyan universi-ty, at Delaware, O. The women may be dmitted on a simple majority vote, it is said, and if this is done it will settle whole question in their favor. There will be a large majority in the conference in

THE DEMOCRACY HAS A GOOD CHANCE

Of Carrying the Country with a Silver Candidate-Interesting Figures Show What We May Expect.

Special Dispatch to The Cincinnati En-Washington, April 21.-It is now gen erally conceded among politicians of both parties that the Chicago national convention will by a decided majority decide for a free coinage platform, and nominate a candidate who holds these views. The adninistration politicians are of course very anxious to defeat such a policy, and one of the methods they employ is the prepara-tion of tables intended to show that on a free coinage platform the democrats are bound to be beaten in the presidential elec-How the democracy is to have ossible show on the other or gold standard they do not undertake to explain. For a long time past it has seemed as if the administration element would be content and happy if they could capture the Chicago convention, as then, even if the election went by default to the licans, they would in any event have a gold standard man in the presidential chair. In fact, nobody seemed to think that the democrats had any chance of electing a president until it became apparent a few days ago that the silver men were going to run the Chicago convention. Since then a very hopeful feeling has prevailed here and predictions of democratic success in November made by the most sagacious and well balanced politi-cians have been frequently made. With such an issue confronting them instead of the tariff, the republicans have abated good deal of 'leir former confidence, and their leaders bel that they have a severe and doubtfu struggle before them, ever if they car y the east solid for the gold

The administration tables, in order to make out a case, put several states in the republican column which are claimed to be emocratic on a square free coinage is ue, and a still larger number of electoret votes in the doubtful column, which would be probably lost on a gold standard

It is admitted that a declaration at Chicago for free coinage would attract to the democratic party a very large number of populists, who left the democracy on acunt of Wall street leadership; also a rific coast and mountain states, as well as the Mississippi valley, and also the en-tire membership of the independent silver party which a few months ago nominated Mr. Sibley, of Pennsylvania, for president These great accessions cannot be dism or put aside in any intelligent estimate of the campaign, and they are now giving pause and anxious thought to the shrewd republican managers.

The following may, in view of such reenforcements, be accepted as a very con-servative estimate for the democracy in case of a free coinage platform and candi-date of the electoral votes to be cast for the democrats and for the republicans with the doubtful list of the fairly debatable states.

Situation in New York.

In this calculation New York is conceded to the republicans, although their party losses by the Raines liquor bill, Roose-veltism and other isms would probably more than counterbalance Wall street deections to the democracy. If these losses should balance each other the state would be naturally democratic. In Michigan and Illinois the silver feeling is rampant regardless of party, and the democrats would have the best chance of success. Iowa would also be a fairly debatable state on silver issue, unless Mr. Allison should the republican nomine As the silver issue is thus pressed rapidly o the front, the tariff is relegated to the rear. It is a matter of history that in presidential fights only one great issue oc-cupies the minds of the American voters. If McKinley should be nominated he will ve to give up his Ohio silver straddl gold-no matter if it kills him in tetion and stultifies his entire record.

they could carry for the democracy on the gold standard line. If in the east they attempted to win electorial votes on such an issue, the republicans would not be a such an issue. issue, the republicans would reply that they had as a party successfully demone-tized silver as far back as 1873—that it was their thunder, and that this was merely a fraudulent attempt of democrats to pirate their patent. The republicans would in such a case have a walk-over, as they are tionably the original Jacobs, and en titled to priority of invention. The logic of a gold standard declaration at Chicago, or even a straddle of the issue, would be the election of the republican candidate, and the voters would certainly look at it that way. The prospect of a silver platform a Chicago, on the other hand, is sadly dis-turbing the Belshazzar feasts of the administration and the republican leaders and makes worthless all their calculations

WITH NASHVILLE

The Atlanta Baptists Are Arranging for a Meeting.

TELEGRAMS INTERCHANGED

Dr. Hawthorne Firm in His Determination.

WHO WILL BE THE DOCTOR'S SUCCESSOR?

Drs. Dixon of New York, Burrows of Augusta, and McConnell of Lynchburg, Spoken Of.

The committee appointed by the members of the First Baptist church to go to Nashville to confer with the Baptist church of that city and if possible to get Dr. Hawthorne released from his promise to accept the call of the Tennessee church began active work yesterday.

Ex-Governor Northen, the chairman of the committee, telegraphed to Major J. W. Thomas, of Nashville, and asked for an appointment with the church body at Nashville in order that the committee o five might appear before it and expres their reason for urging the Tennesse church to release Dr. Hawthorne.

Major Thomas was absent from the city, to a similar telegram was sent to Dr. J. M. Frost, the former pastor of the church Dr. Frost replied to Governor Northen's telegram stating that he was unable to fix a positive date for such a conference without consulting the officers of the Nash-ville church. He said, however, that he would begin work at once and at the earliest possible moment would write a etter giving developments.

Major Thomas will not return to Nashville before Saturday and he may be away until Sunday, in which case the Atlanta ommittee may not go to Nashville next Sunday as was at first expected. Major Thomas has had charge of all arrangements with Dr. Hawthorne and action could scarcely be taken in so serious a matter without consulting him.

In case Major Thomas returns to Nashville the committee, consisting of ex-Governor Northen, Messrs. H. H. Cabaniss, John M. Green, J. J. Maddox and Colonel B. F. Abbott, may leave for Nashville to orrow afternoon in order to be present the Sunday morning service in the Nashville church. At present it does not look as if the trip to Nashville will be nade this week.

There was no meeting of the committee esterday. Governor Northen telegraphed e several members that no conference thurch today and that no action could b taken before Dr. Frost's letter arrived. A meeting will be called on receipt of Dr. Hawthorne Says Little. Dr. Hawthorne came to Atlanta from Manchester yesterday. He was not present at the meeting Wednesday night. When seen he was very reticent.

"I do not wish to say anything," said the doctor. 'My position, I believe, is understood. I have left the matter entirely in

If Hawthorne Goes, Who Comes? There was a great deal of gossip yester-day concerning Dr. Hawthorne's possible lding Dr. Hawthorne to his agreement holding Dr. Hawthorne to his agreement a new pastor must be selected to preside over the First Baptist pulpit in this city. There was some talk of calling Rev. Thomas Dixon, the distinguished New York divine, who is known from one end of this country to the other.

Dr. Dixon is well known in this city and state. He married Miss Bussey, of Columbus, and has often visited Georgia. For many years he presided over the Twenty-third street Baptist church, of New York, on the corner of Fourth avenue, and his regime was a very popular one.

nue, and his regime was a very populatione.

Recently he gave up that church on account of its limited capacity and began to preach in the Academy of Music on Fourteenth street, one of the largest assembly halls in New York.

Others spoken of favorably are Rev. Lansing Burrows, of Augusta, and Dr. McConnell, of Lynchburg.

Dr. Burrows is well known throughout Georgia. He has many friends among the Baptists of this city, who will work hard to get him installed as Dr. Hawthorne's successor in case the latter goes to Nashville.

McConnell has a splendid reputation as a pastor and a man on That Plan-Other Matters

Discussed. The regular monthly meeting of the board of education was held yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the office of Superintendent Slaton, in the Girls' High school, with the following members present: Messrs. Mason, Hirsch, Hammond, Beattie, Hendrix, Thompson, Kontz, Bray, Glenn, Smith, Connally, Calhoun and Nel-The most important act of the meeting was the adoption of the report of the special committee appointed some months ago to investigate and report on improved ethods of selecting and grading teachers Mr. Hendrix, the chairman of the commit-tee, submitted a report, recommending that the Boys' High school be organized and taught in the departmental system Under the system now in vogue in both the Boys' and Girls' High schools, the pupils are taught by grades and one teacher is thus required to teach a wide range of Under the new plan the Boys' High school will be organized by departments, like a college. In this way there will be a teacher for each department. For example, there will be a professor of animals the control of the con cient language, a professor of mathemat-ics, a professor of English, etc. Thus a teacher who is an expert in his chosen line will teach all classes in that depart ment and will not be required to teach a miscellaneous assortment of subjects. This system is universally prevalent in all institutions for higher education, and its advantages are at once apparent.

The recommendation that the new Boys' High school be organized and conducted on this plan was unanimously adopted. The committee asked for more time to consider the other matters assigned to them, which was granted. The action of the board had no bearing on the Girls' High, school, which will continue as at present.

Superintendent Slaton's monthly report was read and approved. Mr. Mason, of the committee on finance, submitted a report showing the receipts for the mont from non-resident scholars to be $186.25. Total expenditures for the month $17,721.60. The report was approved.

The committee on salaries and supplies was authorized, by motion, to purchase school furniture and supplies for the new school buildings now in process of construction. This provides for the furnishing and equipment of the Boys' High school, which will be ready for occupancy by September, and of the new Grammar school in course of erection on the site of the old Crew street school building. The committee on building and school property reported that the Boys' High school build-ing had reached three stories and that the repairs on the Mitchell and Davis street schools had been completed.

The report of the special committee in recommending that the Boys' High school be organized on the department plan, further advised that the detail arrangenent for putting the system in operation be left to the committees on courses of study and text books, and on teachers and examinations. This provision was adopted with the other part of the report. This change in the method of instruction in the Boys' High school is one of the most important ones that has been made in a long time, and it is expected confidently that its working will be fruitful of splendid results.

After hearing the reports of some other committees on routine work the board ad-

A Brilliant Wedding. Yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the First Methodist church was the scene of very pretty and impressive wedding that of Miss Louise Bright Rowe and Mr. Louis Wattras Healey, of Philadelphia. The church was tastily decorated with palms, ferns and American beauty roses and the bridal party stood under a veritable bower of palms.

Mr. Price, the organist, played several delightful organ solos, previous to the arrival of the bridal party, who entered as the wedding march from Lohengrin was Walker Glenn, Mr. Graham Street and Mr.

W. W. Kingston, preceded the bride, who entered with her maid of honor, Miss Lucy Hurt, and was met at 'the chancel by Kelly. The ceremony was impressively performed by Dr. Robins, and Mr. and Mrs. Healey left at once for an extensive tour

Lawrence, Ga., April 23.-(Special.)-Lawrence, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—Mr. W. M. Hobby, of Sylvania, Ga., was married to Miss Kathleen Johnston, of this place, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. J. W. Pogue, a Presbyterian minister and a warm friend of the family, performed the ceremony. Only the family and a few of their most intimate friends were present. Mr. J. W. Overstout, a young lawyer of Sylvania and a warm friend of Mr. Hobby's, came up with him to the marriage. Mr. Hobby is the editor of The Sylvania Telephone, a bright weekly newspaper of Scraven county, and he is regarded by his brethren to be one of the most gifted writers on the weekly press. He is the only son of the late Judge W. Hobby, who was a lawyer of considerable ability and of the strictest integrity. Both of Mr. Hobby's parents are dead and he has only one sister, who married Colonel N. H. Mc-Laws, of Savannah, a son of General Lafayette McLaws.

The oride is a young woman highly accomplished and of many attractions. Her father, Frofessor Johnston, is principal of the high school here. was brilliantly illuminated, elaborately, and tastefully decorated, and was crowded with the many friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The wedding was what is called a "rainbow wedding, costumes of the bride and maids being white, blue, pink and yellow. The march and arrangements were very pretty and arranged with much taste. In fact, it was one of the very prettiest of church weddings. Miss Ruby Dews was maid of honor; Mr. Ed Gunn was best man. Maids were Misses. Emmie Webby, Mary Lee Kiddoo, Ertie Martin and Edna Powell. Ushers were Messrs. H. T. Beall, George M. Graham, McD. Baldwin and Professor C. Woodland. Little Misses Abble Hood, Ethel McDonald, L. and K. Beall were flower girls. Rev. J. P. Woodland, of the Methodist church, performed the marriage ceremony. Professor E. H. McNiel presided at the organ.

Immediately after the marriage the bridal party, together with relatives and other invited guests, repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Beall, where the house was brilliantly illuminated, decorated with much taste, and where a most pleasant and delightfur reception was held. The contracting parties are two well known and deservingly popular young people. Both are active in church and Sabbath school work.

Mr. Morris is the bright and able young editor of The Liberal-Enterprise. He will receive warm congratulations at the hands of his brethren of the press, who esteem him and his paper highly.

Hungarians and Italians Pass Through Brunswick-Resumption of Quarantine Regulations, Etc.

Brunswick, Ga., April 23,-(Special.)-The announcement given the press by the La-dies' Memorial Association of Brunswick in regard to the local observance of Memor'al Day contains their reasons for having the exercises on Monday, the 27th, instead of Sunday, the 26th. that General Clement A. Evans, orator of the day, to avoid traveling on the Sabbath, will arrive here on the evening of the 25th and will be an honored guest at Bay View, the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Madden, where he will be at home to his friends unil Monday night. As it is generally understood that na-tional and state holidays, when failing on Sunday, are observed the day following, the invitation from the local association was so tendered and accepted by General Evans, his preference being also for that

The Great Elks.

The Macon lodge of Elks has received a beautifully engraved and handsomely illuminated invitation on parchiment from the Cincinnati lodge to attend the annual grand lodge meeting at Cincinnati July 7, 8 and 9. A similar invitation has been addressed to all sister lodges. The invitation reads:

"The grand trustees, acting under authority of the grand lodge and in compliance with the law, have honored Clincinnati lodge by selecting our city as the place for the annual grand lodge meeting and have fixed July 7, 8 and 9 as the time. Cincinnati lodge proposes to show its appreciation of this great honor by, making this meeting the occasion of the largest and most successful reunion of Elks everheld. All Elks and their families and friends will be heartly welcomed and entertained. You are therefore most cordially invited to be present at this grand lodge meeting and grand reunion of a reunited brotherhood." In reference to the Sabbath day, the adies believe that it has a prior claim for its regular religious observances which neither the state of Georgia nor the Me-morial Association can rightly take, even for to dear a cause as the honor of the soldiers who have passed from earthly view. While it was thought by some that the exercises on Sunday would be attended ov larger numbers than if held on a week day, the final decision of the ladies will not prove unwise. Brunswickians will do honor to the confederate dead in an appropriate manner and in numbers as large is heretofore, General Evans will preach at the First Methodist church on Sunday preceding his oration and his stay in this city will be made pleasant and gratifying to himself and his many friends.

Colonizing in Georgia. The passing through Brunswick of a arry of Hungarian and Italian immigrants, which was noted in these dispatches Tuesday, is but the beginning of an influx of colonists to Georgia, who will settle on the ine of the Southern railway. Savannah, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—Mr. F G. duBignon gave out an interview today in reply to the statements of Judge a New York firm, but the Southern railway has representatives at work who will locate others at various points on their Georgia line. One of them spent several days here last week Investigating the soil, water, etc., and the results proved satisfactory to such an extent that he has secured options on 30,000 acres of land in various tracts located between Jesup and Brunswick. Within the next thirty days a movement of colonists in this direction can be looked for and under their direction the undeveloped possibilities of this section will be fully brought out. Grand Master John P. Shannon, of Elberton, will be on hand and have charge of affairs. A resolution was passed inviting Judge John W. Akin, of Cartersville, to deliver the Masonic address, and the unanimity with which he was chosen precludes all idea of the lodge receiving an unfavorable answer from him. The lodges from the county and neighboring towns and many prominent Masons from all over the state will be invited to be present. Though not yet fully determined it is generally agreed that we will have a big barbecue and make the occasion one grand gala day. It will be on Tuesday, the 26th of May, during the commencement of this institution, and we expect the town full of visitors.

WAS LOADED WITH BEER.

A Wreck on the Georgia Southern and Florida.

Valdosta, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—The southbound passenger train on the Geor-gia Southern and Florida railroad happened to quite a serious wreck last night a short distance below Jennings Station. A freight car loaded with beer was hitched onto the train between the engine and express car and while going around a shor press car and while going around a short curve the truck to this car flew the track. The express car followed and both were badly smashed up. The freight car was torn to pieces and the beer was scattered all over the woods. The train was running at a lively rate when the wreck occurred and it is a miracle that no one was hurt. The train was delayed twelve hours by the accident.

CARLTON SPEAKS.

The Independent Addresses a Crowd at Athens.

Athens, Ga., April 23 .- (Special.) - Captain I. H. Carlton spoke to quite a number of citizens at the courthouse today. He gave his reasons for withdrawing from the nominating conventions and run-ning his race for congress independent of party voters. He charged ring rule in this district and in the entire state.

He said the ring was dominated by young element that professed to push all he older men off the stage of political action. He declared that he yielded to no man in his loyalty of democratic principles but believed the time had come to do away with primaries and convention and go direct to the people. He declared that people might call him an independent if they wished, but that he was going to fight for the triumph of his principles.

He said he was firmly convinced that the Chicago platform would declare for a gold standard and that as long as God gave him udgment, intelligence and sanity he would never support it. He would quit the church before he would support the gold standard policy, as he believed it would lead to the utter ruin of the people. The bulk of the speech was on the financial issue and in advocacy of the free coinage of silver.

Chairman W. D. O'Farrell, of the district democratic executive committee, will at an early date call his committee together for the purpose of fixing a time and place for holding the congressional convention. It is pretty well settled that Madison will be the place selected for that pur-

BATTLE ABBEY FOR MAY. Movement To Have a Grand Festival

for the Cause Later in the Season. An enthusiastic meeting of the Georgia Battle Abbey Association was held yes-terday morning in the Young Men's Chris-tian Association building. A large num-ber of ladies were present and by the increase in the attendance it can be seen that more interest is being taken in this noble movement.

It was decided at the meeting that a grand festival would be held on 19th of May, lasting for three days. All kind of in-teresting attractions will be placed on the exposition grounds, where the festival is to take place and some magnificent programmes will be arranged.

Some of the features decided on will be a bicycle race tournament regatta, floral parade and baseball game that will un-doubtedly draw a large crowd of ball parade and baseban game that win the doubtedly draw a large crowd of ball fans.

Mrs. W. B. Lowes and Mrs. I. S. Mitchell were elected vice presidents. The refreshment committee is hard at work preparing to sarve the refreshments during the time that the festival is going on. Already they have a donation of ton machines which serve wine of cocoa and orange cider by a nickel in a slot arrangement. The machines are to be filled and taken care of by the donator.

The ladies are determined to make this festival a success and ask for the hearty co-operation of the people of Atlanta.

Colonel Garnett will deliver his famous lecture for the benefit of the battle abbey movement at the Columbia theater next Tuesday night. Colonel Garnett is a personal frierd of Mr. Rouss's and probably knows more about him than any other person. His lecture will be of great interest. The price of admission will be only 25 cents and the tickets are on sale at all book and drug stores.

How It Works.

Eight democratic state conventions have thus far met, put forth platforms and chosen delegates to the democratic national convention. Already it is possible to see the nature of the opposition against which the genuine democrats will have to contend-an opposition that is worth referring to now, early as it is in the campaign.

Of the eight states that have acted, those that are safely democratic, as well as those in which there is the liveliest hope of democratic success, have declared for bimetallism-for the free coinage of both gold and silver, the money of the constitution. On the other hand, the states which have never given the party an electoral vote, and in which there is no hope of democratic success, have declared for the single gold standard. The count stands thus:

Against

Massachusetts.

Rhode Island.

Free Coinage.

For Free Coinage Washington. Colorado. Missouri. Alabama,

If the readers of The Constitution take the trouble to keep a tally sheet they will perceive the gradual development of this scheme. In the republican states the democratic leaders have fallen an easy prey to the wiles of the money power. They dare not resist it, in fact-and they have used the party machinery to commit the party to the hand, where the party is always victorious, or where it has something more than a chance of success, the democratic ciples and are declaring in favor of the free coinage of both gold and silver and against the gold standard.

In fine six democratic states have de clared against the gold standard, and the democrats in two republican states | cratic ticket, no matter whether the plathave declared for the gold standard.

Massachusetts who have become republicans on the financial question will wield more influence in the democratic of Alabama, who have remained true give the name of this eminent cabinet to their principles. If this condition had not been upset by the tremendous we should have seen once more the disgusting spectacle of republican states dictating the platform on which the true they are expected to vote.

Fortunately those who believe in democratic principles and who abhor the A financial heresies of the republicans will not only control the national democratic presconvention, but will make the platform and select the candidate.

The South Will Not Sell Out. The fact that the heads of the gold syndicates are very much alarmed over what, to them, is the very surprising growth and development of the silver ing tremendous efforts to stir Mr. Cleveland and his official advisers into a state of active energy. influence with the democratic voters. This, at least, is the inference to be drawn from the statements that are remains that the real leaders behind the gold standard propaganda, as well as Mr. Cleveland, have been grossly deceived by the very element that they were paying to tell them the truth.

The money power, in its bewilderment, looks to the administration, and Mr. Cleveland is doing his best to hatch some plan that will please the advocates of the British gold standard. In fact, he and his advisers have already found one, and the gold standard press has announced it with quite a flourish of trumpets.

As The Constitution is a newspaper that prints all the news whether it hurts or helps, we take great pleasure in placing the programme of the administration before our readers and in calling it to their careful attention. Let it be borne in mind that the great problem with which the money power has to deal is this: How can the free coinage delegates in the Chicago convention be brought to surrender their convictions and support a gold standard candidate on a gold standard platform? This is the problem that the gold organs say has been solved, and this is the solution, as presented in the Washington correspondence of The New York World:

But President Cleveland and his advisers are not chasing rainbows in that section the south). They appreciate the fact that ne southern delegations will furnish a he Chicago convention and that extraordi ry political skill may be necessary to hold them in line. Under these circumstances the suggestion of one of the mempers of the cabinet to The World correondent is interesting.
"There is one way," said this official,

"by which the large free silver sentiment in the south may be offset and the votes of that section retained solidly for the emocratic ticket, no matter whether the platform declares for a single gold standard or not. That is to place a southern man on the ticket for vice president. The south has been tabooed long enough. The break will have to come some time, and this is as good a time as any to make the experi ment. There is plenty of good material to choose from. It would make no difference whether the platform declared for gold. silver or copper, the south would be solid for a democratic ticket bearing the name of a southern man for the first time since the o elect our candidates."

This idea has been thoroughly discussed y members of the administration and finds eneral favor.

Now we ask any honest and candid democratic voter if that isn't the most interesting programme that he has seen in many a day? It is both simple and cute. It has no unnecessary details to confuse the mind and entangle the understanding. It is perfectly plain and clear. The southern democrats are to be asked to surrender their honest convictions in exchange for the nomination for the powerful office of vice president! No, we are going too fast. They are not even to be asked. The cabinet officer who talked to The World correspondent and he must be a southern man sine deals so freely and familiarly with the views of southern democrats) doesn't say that there is to be any formal arrangement at all. He merely sets his hat cock-a-hoop on his head and informs The World correspondent that he will drop their honest convictions to bite has got the bait that southern democrats at. Observe what an exalted opinion this cabinet officer has of the honesty of the southern people! "It would make no difference," he declares, "whether the platform declared for gold, silver or copper, the south would be solid for a democratic ticket bearing the name of a southern man for the first time since the war." Place a southerner on the ticket for vice president, says this cabinet officer, "the votes of that section could be retained solidly for the demo form declares for the single gold stand-

Now, how simple that is! It is as easy as falling off a log, only, in this instance, there will be no splash at all. We should be glad for The World to officer who has such an exalted opinion of the political honor and honesty of the democratic voters of the south. As a matter of fact, there is no such programme on foot among the gold standard men. Stupid as the majority of their political henchmen are, they are not so stupid as to believe that the honest democratic voters of the south are will ing to sell their convictions in return for the nomination of a southern man to the

> What has been the result? Why, in spite of the pressure of this tremendous influence, in spite of the power of officia position and the partisan activity in be half of the British gold standard, true democrats everywhere are reasserting the democratic principles of free coinage, and are repudiating the effort to cram republican doctrine down their throats.

And now, to crown it all, we are in formed on the authority of a cabinet officer that the democrats of the south will sell their principles and renounce their convictions in return for the nomination for vice president of a southern man opposed to their views. In our day and time we have seen and resented some very bitter attacks on the honor of the southern people, but a deeper and blacker insinuation against their integrity we have never seen. And t comes from a cabinet officer.

Would The World violate any confidence by giving the name of this cabinet officer?

Baron Hirsch.

In the death of Baron Hirsch, which occurred at his palatial residence in Hungary a few days ago, the Jewish race has lost its greatest benefactor and the cause of practical philanthropy its most renowned exponent.

Since the days of Moses Montifiore, hat illustrious Hebrew who devoted his mmense fortune to the persecuted members of his race, no one of his race and religion has enshrined himself in the affections of his people more securely or left behind him a more enduring legacy of fame than Baron Hirsch.

On both sides of the Atlantic and in every quarter of the globe there is genuine sorrow over the death of this

Possessed of riches which made him rival of the Rothschilds, and one of the leading financiers of Europe, he wedded to this enormous wealth a disposition to improve the welfare of those who shared with him the same descent and traditions; and, with a patriotic zeal which never wavered in its fixed determination, he applied himself to this high mission, giving freely to every one who sought his alms and even crossing the water to bestow his bouny upon the needy Jews of other lands. Long before he acquired his vast wealth Baron Hirsch entertained the hope that he might be of service to his people, who had been for years the objects of persistent persecution by al most every European power. In Russia the condition of the Jew attracted the attention of the world. Without the protection of the government, and deprived of nearly all the rights belonging to a citizen of that empire, the Jew was an object of scorn, plunder and de rision. In France and Germany the status of the race was but a shade improved; and wherever the opportunities bors of the Jew and to furnish him a home there the rapacious greed of his enemies seized upon him and made it impossible for him to enjoy the fruits of his industry in peace.

The first measure of relief which emanated from the heart of this distinguished Hebrew was the offer of $10,000,000 to the czar of Russia to be expended upon the Russian Jews. This offer was declined, as the czar was not able to secure the absolute control of this fund, Nevertheless, the money was expended, and other sums in like manner. Colonies were organized and thousands of these persecuted Jews emigrated to America, some locating in the United States and others in the Argentine Republic. During the last year of his life Baron Hirsch spent no less than $5,000,000 in relieving the wants of his race. In 1890 the sum which he set apart to American charities alone aggregated $2,500,000, which was placed in the hands of a entral committee of the Baron Hirsch fund. America, therefore, has good reason to cherish the memory of this

In addition to the various charities with which the name of Baron Hirsch has been associated it should also be remembered that he was one of the original promoters of European railway transportation and was the man, above all others, to whom that continent is most indebted for the present thorough

Side by side with his illustrious predecessor, who reversed the judgment of accumulated centuries upon his race by showing to the world that Hebrew generosity could be measured only by Hebrew acquisition, the memory of Baron Hirsch will be cherished by the people of his race as long as charity abides and his name will be written high among the favored sons of Israel.

Enterprising Japan. Japan is one of the most enterprising nations of the old world. Though it occupies a small island in the far Pacific, just a few miles distant from the main land of Asia, the civilization of the people is by no means peculiar to that remote quarter of the globe; while the progress of the nation in art, literature and science is more suggestive of the strides of Europe and America. Since the recent war the civilized world has had a better understanding of this far-off nation and with a better knowledge of the people has come a deeper admiration for the enterprise and heroism by which they are distinguished.

Japan is provided with railroads, tele graph wires, electric lights and all the improvements of modern civilization. Recently a committee of enterprising

The action of the council is very generally indorsed. The proposition made by Venable Bros. seems to meet every objection urged against that made by the same gentlemen some days ago, and is pronounced by some of the city's ablest financiers and most conservative business men as the best deal the city can possibly make. It certainly seems an excellent oppor-

Naturally the official organ didn't make a big spread of the Alabama victory. But, anyhow, the news will be carried to the brethren.

The democratic rallying cry this year s, "Down with the gold standard!" Maybe Secretary Smith will have his remedy in shape to take it out of the andbox in May. Congressman Turner has the most elebrated remedy of all. It is this:

EDITORIAL COMMENT. In view of the constant stream of imnigration which yearly pours its tribute pon these shores it is difficult to realize hat Europe's population is increasing at such a rapid rate that this enormous exo Recorder says that Europe's increase for the last ten years has been 30,000,000. The Hungarian empire increased 3,502,200, Great Britain 2,452,400, Germany 4,522,600. France is at the foot of the list, with 67,100; even Turkey exceeds her, having grown to the extent of 1,100,000. Asia is growing faster than either Europe or America, though, course, it starts from a bigger basis hows a growth of 33,000,000. He lived at Scranton for nearly a year and while there made the acquaintance of Mull. After befriending the Italian when he was set upon by hoodlums the two came fast friends and during a long llness of young Miller the Italian waited upon him and gave him daily presents of dowers and dainties. Miller returned to Media three years ago and the intimacy ceased. The Media boy had about forgoten his foreign friend until yesterday, when a letter came from a person in Scranton saying that Mull had died at St. Louis, Mo., and had left $70,000 worth his fortune to J. Spencer Miller. The let ter asked: "Are you the J. Spencer Miller referred to in the will?" Mr. Miller at first was inclined to regard the whole thing as a joke, but on telephoning to other persons at Scranton he found that such a bequest had really been made. The only question is whether or not the J. Spencer Miller, of Media, is the person mentioned in the will. There seems to be no doubt of it. Mr. Miller believes he is certainly the man, and with his attorney has gone to Scranton to make a thorough investigation of the strange case. Mul a person. He was about forty years old. Now that the Alabama convention over the salient features by which it was controlled become more pronounced. was, taken in all its points, one of the nost important political gatherings which have ever been held in the United States. Its proceedings present such a remarkable reversal of control that the more one examines it the more he becomes satisfied of the popular revolution which mus have taken place in order to render the existence of such a convention possible.

It was but six years ago that the Alabama farmers, moved as were their brethren in every other state of the union, knocked in vain at the doors of political parties demanding relief, expressing their weariness with pledges made to be broken after the elections were over. In Alabama these were the men who had followed Senators Morgan and Pugh, and who went into the convention of 1890 but to be deprived of its control through parliamentary technicalities, and after it was over to be hounded from pillar to post by men who neither had the magnanimity to treat a fallen foe graciously, nor the patriotism to endeavor to reconcile them with the situation. It was at this point that the present secretary of the navy, Hilliary A. Herbert, fnen a congressman from Alabama, betrayed the trust reposed in him by nstituents, and led in the desertion to ward goldbuggery which was afterwards to become an alleged test of party faith The people sent to congress in his place the brainy and impulsive Stallings, who has never faltered in the advocacy of popular rights. Mr. Herbert, as the reward of his desertion of his constituency was later called into the cabinet of Mr. Cleveland.

In Alabama party allegiance means much more than it does in a great many other states. There are certain sections of the state completely at the mercy of negro rule, and in order to offset the danger of Africanization white men have been forced ubmit to a gent deal rather than to fall out and quarrel about injustices which have been placed upon them. From this may be seen how difficult was the position in which the average democrat found himself. Social safety was only to be found within the ranks of the democratic party, and yet there were certain ringmasters in the party who tried their patience sore ly. When two years ago Congressmar Oates offered himself for the governorship of his native state, making gold speeches in the big cities and free silver ones in the bockwoods beats, there was precipitated a state of things by which men had to forget their principles and vote for a ticket placed upon a platform which they repudiated is having been borrowed from republican sm. Party loyality alone elected Governo Oates, but it was plain to all men that the next election would call for different methods and for the return of fair dealing with the people. The convention just adjourned shows how thoroughly this work was done. Notwithstanding all the efforts of corporations, of federal and state oficialdom, of coercion upon labor, and of he dragooning of the debtor class through ne bankers and the merchants and manu facturers of the north, the people turned ut and swept away the political cobweb by which it was thought to enchain them, and declared their political freedom.

It was fortunate for the democracy of Alabama that it had within its ranks a nan such as Captain Joseph F. Johnston He never lent himself to the unworthy methods or policy of those whose every act was to render it difficult to support the party. He never turned his back upon the honest people of Alabama, who in many cases found themselves driven out of the arty of their fathers by place hunters nd claquers. He went from one end of and claquers. the state to the other, calling the people back to first principles, urging upon them that the democratic party was for the peo-ple and not the office holders. His nomination for the governorship means that the ocracy of Alabama, freed from the inubus which has hitherto held it down strength and vigor of youth, ready to grapple with the enemies of the state, and confident of a victory which will roll up a majority of not less than

Of course those who have basked beneath the sunshine of federal patronage are no satisfied with this condition of things When the state executive committee in vited all citizens who loved their state to take part in her rehabilitation, it was a nce abused and set upon by those who preferred backroom caucuses and dark-lantern machines. Speaking to one of these people the other day, he gave expression to some very strange ideas. In the first place he declared that no man should be permitted to vote in a democratic primary ntil he had been given several years of robation, before he would be entitled to take part in naming the men by whom he was to be governed. In other words, government was to come from above and the people were but to be the obedient servants of the men who assumed to control

"If it was not." he said, "for some o our own men we would have carried this nomination for Clarke. In the first place Governor Oates had to stab the 'old guards in the back when he refused to stand for a second term for the governorship. Under the tradition governing nominations ne would have been entitled to this in lorsement, and that would have kept Captain Johnston out of the field for two ears longer. As it was, however, he an over-weaning ambition to be the next senator from this state that h abandoned his point of vantage and threw the prize of the governorship open for contest. Now, I might as well tell you that Oates stands as much chance of being senator from Alabama as for becoming the czar of Russia. Even if we had the power we would not confer the office upon him. The second blow which was given to the Cleveland party in Alabama was the resignation of the chairmanship of the state executive committee by Colo nel Tompkins, who also had an ambition to become our next senator, but he will now have to stay home and keep company with Governor Oates. His resignation of that office rendered it possible for Capand thus, with the machinery of the state in his hands, to throw the polls open to everybody to vote, which meant that we would be defeated. I can tell you now that the gold men of Alabama will not soon forget the conduct of Oates and Tompkins, who allowed their personal ambiticn to sacrifice the party they repre-

In regard to this suggestion from one of the most prominent men of Alabama, it may be here stated that whatever fear which once existed that the gold men might capture the next senatorship, need no longer beentertained. Anyone present in Montgomery during the past few days ould readily see that Governor Oates had no strength whatever, and that the same was true of all other Alabamians who had allied their fortunes with the gold wing. The next senator from Ala-bama will be an advocate of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. Who he may be is a debatable question, but that he must be sound on the money issue is one of the certainties of the day. Recurring to the question as to who the next senator will be, the prize seems to belong to one of three men-either that Senator Pugh will be his own successor, or that the office will to either General Pettus or Colone Bankhead. The friends of Senator Pugh made a gallant fight to save the state from goldbugism, and the splendid victory ents and fidelity, makes him a tower of the convention could fail to see the hold which General E. W. Pettus has upon the hearts of the people of Alabama-one of those lion-hearted men whose word no man dare question, whose courage has been proved so often that to see him is that he is a man of strength a Integrity and decision. As chairman of the committee on resolutions he had a difficult place to fill. A strong advocate of true democracy in every sense of the word, a pillar of strength in favor of the free coinage of silver, his position chairman on resolutions presenting the report which he did, was calculated to attract the shafts of the opposition. But when he arose in the midst of that convention the people read in the stern lines of his face that he was reading what he believed and that his life stood behind his declarations. Even the leader of the opposition, Hon. E. L. Russell, of Mo bile, recognized the pyschic power of this strong old man, and when called upon to take the stand for the delivery of hisspeech after General Pettue had spoken from the floor, he declared in words that no Alabamian would take higher place than that held by General Pettus. The statement brought forth such general applause that it was seen that Mr. Russell was not alone in his estimate of the man. Such a man as General Pettus, in the event of Senator Pugh's tirement, would be a fitting companio for the incomparable Morgan.

Then there stood before that convention another figure—that of its honorable chair-man, Bankhead. Mr. Bankhead is just now in the prime of life, with face and mein and figure which recall the form of the late A. H. Colquitt when he was prime. Dashing, chivalrous, popular with the people, and holding together this large convention with all the dexterity of an expert parliamentarian, Mr. Bankhead stands out prominently as one of the men whom Alabamians would like to see in the highest councils of the union.

As for the convention itself, it presented ensiderable food for study. Its membership was largely composed of young men, who had their faces turned toward the rising sun-the strong arms, the cool heads upon which the future of Alabama must rest, serving their state for the first time, they gave evidence of their sincerity, their integrity and of a high order of in-telligence. They believe that there is no better gountry in the world than the United States, and that within the limits of the union there exists no section to which Alabama should bow either for direction or opinion. It was refreshing when certain old fogies would move around among the impulsive young delegates, suggesting to them to refer the financial question to Chicago, to hear their quick question to Chicago, to hear their quick and ready answers.

"Alabama begs for no other man's opinion. They can form their own."

It was this strong tentiment which moved them to declare that their voice in the naticral convention should have as strong a meaning as any, not inferior to that of New York or Massachusetts.

When the convention was called upon to take up the platform for action, there was an effort to have an extended debate. General Pettus moved that an hour be granted for that purpose. This he did to open the question. One of the younger delegates at once moved to reduce the debate to half an hour and thus let the people come to a vote. His resolution was carried with such a hurrah that even the managers saw that these men had assembled for business, and were tired of listening to political plat itudes. A little later, in closing the debate there was a remarkable scene when Gener al Pettus explained that he had received his edity, from the days of General Jackson am too o'l now," he said, "to change my democracy, and I would never change of orders." The meaning of the general words were well understood by those exfree silver men present who had to wait for the case from the treasury department. he cue from the treasury department.

One of the greatest trials of the campaign of Captain Johnston was the fact that he had a number of "sound money" supporters, as they term themselves. These men were not sufficient to change the result. stultify itself in the greater duty for which it had met-the declaration of party principles. The methods by which the gold men sought to embarrass the other side were many and various, but perhaps the cleverest piece of work which they did was the plan by which they secured the inser-tion of a compromise editorial in The State Herald, in the absence of its responsible managers. Colonel Joseph Hodgson, one of the editorial writers who lives in Mobile, the editorial writers who lives in Mobile, sends his copy to Birmingham by mail. It was strange that on this particular question not a man connected with The State Herald knew that he was going to send in any editorial, but that its existence was known to almost every member of the Clarke combination in advance of its appearance. When, on the next day, during the debate, Mr. Russell read this editorial, although it had been repudiated by the owners of the paper, the whole plan became very plain—so plain, indeed, that it defeated its own purpose.

There is one gold man in Alahama who deserves well of his party, and one on whom the convention worthily conferred a commission to go to Chicago. That man Hon. John B. It was largely through his personal influence that the gates were thrown open to all Alabamians to return to the party fold. In doing this one thing he has contributed more to removing the sores which have existed for the past few years among alabamians then to estimate at this time convention, in placing him upon the Chica-go delegation, did so for the express pure of showing its high appreciation of his

What of the future? is now the question Will Captain Joseph F. Johnston be elected

While in Montgomery I spoke with mer of all shades of opinion on this subject. There is no doubt that if Mr. Clarke had been nominated, running with a Massachusetts collar around his neck, But the nomination of Captain Johnston has changed all this. Those men who have been estranged from the party who voted in large numbers at the primaries, will vote for the straight ticket in August, aided by thousands of their friends who were not ready for the good news last week. The no longer reason or excuse for any white man in Alabama to remain outside of the party ranks. The democracy under Cap-tain Johnston represents home ville crid ain Johnston represents home rule and a ree ballot, prosperity, good government and verything which people should look for through political machinery.

It was the knowledge of the fact that hese white men could not long be held out-ide of the party that caused the populist eaders to work so earnestly for the nomi nation of the gold standard candidate as they well knew that the people of the state would never subscribe to such doctrine. The only danger in the way of democracy to were possible that the Chicago convention should fall into the hands of Wall street's brokers there would be doubt. But enough has already been seen to warrant the belief that the Chicago convention will represent the people, that the boys from the trenches will fill the delegates' seats in that body, and that they are wise enough and strong enough to take care of them. that body, and that they are wise enough and strong enough to take care of themselves, and not to be overcome by specious platforms or coy words. The Chicago convention, from every assured democratic state throughout the union will be represented by men in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Carr Expresses Delight at the Result of the Trial.

APPEARED QUITE INDIFFERENT

But After the Verdict Was Read He Grew Happy.

HE WILL GO TO THE ASYLUM AT ONCE

Gallows at the Jail Will Not Be Used Today, in Consequence of the Verdict.

The ugly, red deathtrap that was waiting behind the jail to take the life of Alex Carr at noon today was despoiled of its prey yesterday afternoon.

Carr will not hang today. His long fight against the gallows ended in success a 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that hour a jury of twelve just and impartial men announced the result of the three days hearing in these simple words: We, the jury, find that Alex Carr is in-

It was a unanimous verdict. Elever names were signed to it. The words meant life to the careless-looking man who was sprawled in a chair three feet from where the verdict was being read. He did not move a single muscle. He had heard and had half comprehended, but he gave no

The jury was out two hours. One hour of that time Carr spent in the jury room But for his appearance before the eleven gentleman who had his fate in their hands he would have swung today. The trial of Alex Carr was insane. Nearly all of them thought the man should hang. But they called him in. He went readily even eagerly. For an hour he talked to them in his rambling way. He read to them from a soiled religious tract, which he drew from his pocket and explained it in his childish way.

"Christ is a standard," he said. "I know what a standard is. Take my finger here. pose it was a brass screw and had elev Every brass screw in the world would have to have twelve threads in it to be a standard. Don't you see that?

"I have been thinking about talking to you gentleman a long time. I wanted to talk in court, but they wouldn't let me. 1 have been thinking about what to say. I don't know whether I sught to answer your questions like you think I ought to, or whether I ought to say what I know is right. I am sane; I know that, But I don't want to be hung tomorrow. Maybe I ought to be hung, though."

Their interview with him convinced the jury that Carr was insane and twenty minutes after he left the jury room they so found. There was but one ballot as to the verdict and it was unanimous.

When they entered the courtroom with their verdict the little space was packed to suffocation. Carr had just come in from his dinner and was chewing a toothpick. His father was pacing back and forth and the verdict was received under circumstances of a highly dramatic nature. A burst of applause rang out as the verdict was read.

Old man Carr gave a glad start. Judge Anderson, who had read the verdict as the representative of the defense, turned to Carr gazed at him dully. "What?" he asked in his dry voice.

Waiting for the Verdict. Colonel Rube Arnold finished his three hours' speech at 1:10. Judge Calhoun occupied five minutes in reading the law to the jury and making a short charge. He then adjourned court until 2:30 o'cleck.

Carr sat at his accustomed seat as the jury filed by him. Those who watched m closely thought he was a little nervous as the jury went out. All morning, through the long speeches, through bursts of humo and strains of pathos, he had sat in his chair unmoved. By neither word nor movement had he expressed feeling. He had not spoken. But as the jury went out he turned to Mr. Bealer.

The Priscner Grows Talkative.

"Your name's Alex," he said. "I heard somebody call you that. I saw you at the jail once, too. My name's Alex." The crowd had pressed up around him, but he showed not the slightest embarrass-

"Old man, I'm glad your boy is not going to hang tomorrow," said a man who held out his hand to the old fellow. Old man Carr nodded and took the hand. Others came up and shook his hand. He edged his way out through the big crowd as best ne could. People shook his hands as he went. Finally he was away from the moving tide. Then he slunk away to carry the news home and was lost to the crowd.

Carr was carried back to jail. On the way to the prison he continued to talk to Mr. Hill. He declared that he was sane and knew what he was doing. At the jail he changed his line.

"I don't know whether I'm sane or not," he said. "There must be something the matter with me or the jury wouldn't have said that."

Carr in a Happy Humor.

Carr's spirits rose constantly, and he appeared in high glee. He greeted Jailer Eubanks in a happy manner. He told about the verdict with evident delight. He spoke frequently of going to the asylum and showed his pleasure at the prospect.

"You will have a pleasant time there," said Jailer Eubanks. "They will give you plenty of liberty. You can even go fishing."

The five men in the room knelt, while the prisoner babbled out a foolish and disnected, but earnest prayer. "Do you always pray before eating?

"I didn't yesterday," he said. "You were not here. And I felt bad about it all day.'

The Jury Returns. He ate heartily and waited until an officer came into the sheriff's room and fold him to come down and hear the dict. He got up and followed the officers to the crowded room below.

He entered rather quickly and sa down. He was chewing a toothoick and his face had more color in it than it had in the morning; he had eaten very heartily. The jury filed into the room and took their seats. Judge Anderson had just come over from the aldermanic board, where he had gone a half hour before. Solicitor

A Picture of Trembling Anxiety. Old man Carr, lean and bent and gray a pathetic picture, was pacing nervously up and down in front of the jury box. He had forgotten to take off his hat, and in the excitement of the moment none of the half dozen bailiffs present thought to remind him of it. He was trembling like a leaf and tears of emotion stood in his eyes. His thin lips shook beneath his scraggy gray beard.

Alex Carr sat leaning a little forward, gazing at the floor. The courtroom was quiet as death. "Have you reached a verdict, gentlemen?" asked Judge Calhoun.

"We have," said the foreman, Dr. Crow, rising. He sat in the end seat on the front row-the seat nearest Carr. He was rather pale and his hand shook a little as he held up the paper containing the fateful Carr did not look at the man who was about to sound the words of hope or doom for him. It was the crisis, the crucial mo-ment, but the features of the wooden man gave no sign of feeling.

The Fateful Words Read, "Judge Anderson, receive the verdict," said the ordinary.

The judge stood up, his tall form towering over the criminal. He took the paper from Dr. Crow "Shall I read it?" he asked coolly. Ordinary Calhoun nodded. He turned the colded sheet so that the light fell upon it. The crowd waited eagerly. Old man Carr, his hat still pulled down over his gray hairs, pressed up against, and tried to read the verdict over his arm. The old man was shaking more than ever.

Judge Anderson read the words slowly.

There was a quick volley of applause. Old man Carr wheeled around but did not speak. There was a curious expression in his face. He looked at his son, who sat with head bent down. He turned about several times in a dazed sort of manner and turned and looked gratefully upon the jury. "Is the verdict signed by all the jurorseleven?" asked Ordinary Calhoun.

Judge Calhoun counted the names. "There are eleven signatures," he said. Ordinary Calhoun thanked the jury for their diligent attention to the case and told them that if they would repair to his office they would receive their pay. The court was then dismissed.

Carr on the Verdict. Carr heard the verdict in silence. He sat pondering a half minute and turning to the bailiff asked:

Lailer Eubanks would not allow this. "You nust go up to your cell," said he. Carr went reluctantly. He entered twelve spot" in lighter spirits than he had ever felt on entering it before. He Wanted To See the Papers. When the papers came he was curious to "What do they say about me?" he asked.

"Can I?" asked Carr. "Well, I'll go.

During former trials when the papers were full of accounts of his trials, and later, when his sensational confession was made and columns upon columns were printed about him and his story, he never once asked for a paper. But yesterday afternoon he wanted to know what had been said about him in print and about the verdict that had been print and about the verdict that had been reached in his favor.

Jailer Eubanks was exceedingly kind to him and gave him every attention. When the jaller came out from talking with him a representative of The Constitution asked

"Carr is in better spirits than he has ever been before, isn't ne?"
"Oh, yes. He is much happier than he was yesterday, this morning, or at any oth-er time. He is greatly pleased with the verdict."

What is your orinion as to his sanity?" "I have no opinion," said he.
Up to a late hour last night Jailer Eu-banks nor Carr had received notice of the time Carr was to be taken to the asylum.

He was followed by Colonel Arnold, Sr. Colonel Arnold spoke a little more than three hours. It was a powerful, an earnest and an impassioned speech. No finer effort was ever made for a client than Colonel Arnold made for Carr.

He took up the evidence, chain by chain, and followed it to the end. He contended that Carr was not only crazy now, but had been practically a demented man all his life. He was a lunatic by heredity, he argued. He declared that everywhere Carrhad been heard of in the whole trial he had been proven crazy. He dwelt at great length on the expert tertimony of Drs. Powell and Murphy and said it could not be gainsaid by any other testimony of any other physicians or witnesses. He said he had labored in the case without hope of reward, merely for the sake of seeing justice done an unfortunate man. Carr was unable to defend himself or to assist him in his defense. The speech was strong, argumentative and eloquent and not only held the attention of the large audience, but kept the jury deeply interested until its close.

but kept the jury deeply interested until its close.

When Colonel Arnold closed, Ordinary Calhoun charged the jury. Said he:

"The powers conferred upon the ordinary in cases like this are quite limited, as also are the regulations prescribed conducting such trials. It has, however, been the custom in this state for the ordinary to preside, administer the oath to the jury and decide upon the admissibility of evidence. I do not think I have authority of law to charge, and I therefore will not attempt to do more than call your attention again to section 4666 of the code of Georgia, which I have already read in your hearing and which I will now read again. Public propriety and humanity demand that, where a convict under sentence of death becomes insane the sentence of the law should not be carried into execution, but should be suspended and the convict confined in the lunatic asylum, and if restored to sound mind the execution should be done. The newspaper reporters came down and I didn't tell it all right. That's the only doubt I have. If I'd can go to the gallows sweet enough. I hope I'll get to heaven. These spectators remained. The excitement of the Carr trial overhead did not cause them to nove, as the details of the horrible story of a young girl's shame and her betrayer's purpose was spread out before them. There was a stir when the bailiff, leading the prisoner, filed into the room. Stepping firmly, confidently, looking from face to face eagerly, curiously, Hotton was shown to his seat, where he remained seemingly indifferent to the scenes about him. Just to one side was the decrepit old mother of Ida Elliot. Her wrinkled face stained with a flood of tears was buried in her hands. At her side was her young daughter, the of Ida Elliot. While the memories of her daughter's awful death came upon the old woman and shook her frail body with grief the comforting hand of the young girl tried to sooth the sorrow.

Hotton looked at them casually and once gave a nod of recognition to the young girl. All about sat the neighbors of Ida Elliot and many who had known Hotton before his arrest and confinement. Throughout the trial the prisoner pre-served a cool mein. There was nothing to indicate remorse. He sat quietly, twisting the ends of his blond mustache.

A mother's Grief.

A Mother's Grief. Trembling with grief, bowed with the weight of care, and harassed by the embarrassment which her testimony would cause, the old mother of Ida Elliot came upon the stand.

There was a lull in the big courtroom, and the tragic scene brought tears to the eyes of some of the sternest court officials. Out of due consideration she was not worried with repeated questions from the atried with repeated questions from the attorneys.

"My poor dead daughter was pure." she said. "There was nothing wrong with her. She went with Mr. Hotton but she was a good girl and was not in the condition these doctors says she was when she died. The prisoner was allowed to make a statement. He spoke in a calm, determined voice.

"Some time about the first of the year." he said, "I was passing by the Troy Steam Laundry where Ida worked and she beckoned to me across the street and called me to her. She gave me a dollar and asked me to buy some medicine for her. I didn't understand exactly what she said, but wrote what I thought to be the name of the medicine in my book. I went to McCall's drug store and the clerk could not understand what I wanted. He looked at the book and fixed up iodine. I took it to Ida and she told me it was the wrong medicine. I carried it back and got the money. I then went to Ingram's drug store and got ergot, which I learned from Ida was what she wanted. I did not take the medicine to her until the next morning when I stopped

Georgia Electric Light Company Donates the Property on That Condition-Means Another Inlet.

Davis street is to be extended from its present western end to Simpson street. The ompletion of the work will give the people of the extreme western part of the city an inlet to the center of the city.

The street will be extended from Foundry street to Simpson street, running through the property of the Georgia Electric Light Company. The company has agreed to donate the property necessary to carry the street through if the city will pay for the sidewalks and curbing to be laid.

The council has passed an ordinance ap propriating sufficient money, $2,000, for the purpose of laying the sidewalks and curb-ing and yesterday afternoon the matter came before the aldermanic board. The board concurred in the paper and when it is approved by Mayor King the work will e commenced at once. For several years the people of the west-ern part of the city have argued and work-ed for the extension of Davis street, but erosity of the electric light company it is not likely that the work would have been passed up by the council, the distance being onsiderable and through ground which will require a good deal of labor to pre-pare for a street. The street will run by the immense power house of the company and intersect Simpson, the principal cross street of the western section, at a point near the plant. By the opening of the street the people of the far western section will be enabled to send their children direct to the Davis

During the discussion of the matter it was stated by Mr. Colvin that Jumbo Hunter had filed a petition asking to be appointed to the place. Mr. Colvin said that Jumbo proposed to do the work for a less sum than that proposed to be paid to Captain Baker. Mr. Colvin made a motion that the matter be held up until Jumbo could go before the tax committee and explain what he proposes to do. The motion was defeated, but in order to give the petitioner named a chance the board decided to provide for a place for Captain Baker for thirty days only. By the adoption of the amendment the matter will be held up until the next meeting of the council.

The aldermanic board concurred in ordinance authorizing the police board to reorganize the detective department. The board is given authority by the ordinance to establish the office of sergeant of detectives, who shall have charge of that department and who shall receive the pay of a regular police sergeant, $2.70 per day. The salary of the regular detectives is increased from $2.15 per day to $2.70 per day.

Revival of the Venezuelan War Scare Caused Stocks to Decline.

TOBACCO MADE A BAD BREAK

The Bull Leader Bought Cotton Heavily Early but Sold Through a Dozen Brokers Later.

New York, April 23.-The revival of the Venezuelan war scare in London was promptly reflected in a decline at the local stock exchange of anywhere from 1/4 to conspicuous. The selling for foreign account played directly into the hands of the sold out bulls, and the latter attempt-ed to force further liquidations. They met Pacific, Michigan Central, Lake Shore, Jersey Central and New York Central, sold Early in the day the stock brought 74% The slump was due to an unconfirmed rumor that an injunction had been ob-tained restraining the payment of the scrip dividend recently declared. The break in the stock had but little influence on the general list, which held fairly steady to the close. Net changes show losses of 4@11% per cent, Sugar leading. The Grangers, however, show slight gains for the day. Tobacco lost 4 per cent. Early Morning Gossip. By Private Wire to the Paine-Murphy

Brokerage Company.
New York, April 23.—The course of prices yesterday furnished additional evidence of the existence of a bull market. It is probable that a large operator placed buying orders in the leading stocks at the opening in order to counteract the expected decline in arbitrage stocks, but they found offerings comparatively light, and as soon as the orders were seen the effort of the room to recover short stocks establish-ed a gain exceeding in most cases the amount of the decline. This tendency en-couraged the bulls to advance the special-ties and led to the recovery of stocks. ties and led to the recovery of stocks by office traders, who had sold for a reaction.

The reaction in the market is believed to be the result of the London uneasiness Venezuelan question. London has not been a very large seller, but the change in the situation has led some operators here to sell a line of stocks.

The Iron Trade.

Cleveland, O., April 23.—The Iron Trade Review today says: "Ore purchases by the leading western steel interests have been made in the past week, the amount covering from 50 to 60 per cent of requirements. Pittsburg has not been heard from as yet in any large way, but may come into the market before the end of the month. The sales just made have not only established the ore prices heretofore announced, but have shown the strength of the bessemer ore producers' organization in its ability to enfore its regulations without discrimination in favor of large celwil buyers. New York, April 23.—Liverpool was better, but the advance there was regarded as an imadequate response to the rise here of yestersay, and after advancing early in the dawnrices gracually, receded. Then, too, Liverpool lost part of the rise before the close, and the large operator who took such a part in building the market yesterday took profits today, it is thought. This had quite a depressing influence on the market, and rains were reported in the Atlantic states, where recently drought has been complained of. The quantity to come into sight this week is expected to be quite large, the estimate today being 59,000 bales, against 42,000 last week, 62,000 last year. 50,000 in 1894 and 43,000 in 1893. Prices here opened 1@3 points higher, then advanced 5 to 6 points, but lost part of the improvement and closed 1 point higher for the near and 1@3 points lower on the distant with the tone steady. It is reported that freight room for 10,000 bales of May delivery has been engaged. Bombay receipts for the week $3,000, against 79,000 the same week last year: shipments none to Great Britain, against 1,000 last year and to the continent 26,000, against 70,000. In Manchester yarns were firmer and cloths were hardening. Spots here advanced 1-16c, New Orleans sold 3,500, St. Louis, 1,775, Mobile 4,000, Savannah 301. Port receipts 5,952, against 4,652, 11,106 and 4,560 in 1894. Thus far this week 38,816 against 30,285 last week, The exports from the ports approximated 10,000 bales. The following are the closing quotations of future cotton in New Orleans teday: 6.98 July...

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, April 23.—There has been but a moderate number of buyers in the dry goods market today, yet spot business in a number of directions is reported as steadily, if slowly improving. Such buyers as are making the rounds of the market show more serious interest in the situation, and if not always purchasing with more free-dom than before are making their indom than before are making their inquiries with more directness of purpose, and where bidding is working up closer to sellers' ideas if not yet fully prepared to accept the latter's limits. Over staple cotton goods the improvement in the cotton market is exercising an influence, mild at present, but likely to be more potent should raw material retain its present strength. Confidence in the market on the general run of staple cottons having reached bottom thus appears to be gaining ground. There may be a further revision in the price of bleached cottons, such as some buyers expect, but brown and colored cottons are evidently deemed deserving of some attention on the basis of present prices. There have been no developments in the market for woolen and worsted goods, and silk fabrics continue duil and irregular.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, April 23.—Among the current rumors around the market is one that 10,000 bales of May contracts will be shipped to Liverpool when tendered by a Liverpool firm, which has been long of these contracts here. This is said to have been the basis for the sharp advance, especially upon the May and June deliveries. The supply of the shorts this morning seemed to come from the source which has been reported to be heavily long of cotton and the short interest seems to have covered, leaving the market quiet, after an active morning, at a small advance from last evening. Our local operators still feel bullish on the market, though the commission houses are doing little new business in the Atlantic states, where rain was needed, broke the prices of the new crop below those of last evening, and at no time today were these deliveries strong. The close was quiet with little disposition to anticipate a further advance tomorrow, as the offerings of the new crop cotton exceeded expectations, while the short interest in the immediate delivery has been sensibly reduced. Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, April 23.—(Special.)—The cothas been for many a day. The bull leader was buying heavily in person in the early trading, advancing August from 7.83, the Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

opening price, to 7.88. In the first hour the market was very strong. In the latter part of this hour the leader was selling heavily through a dozen brokers, but the excitement and scare among the shorts was so general and acute that it was some time before the effect of his selling began to be felt. Before noon, however, prices had very perceptibly eased, and glowing accounts from the south of the season and the planting outlook helped to encourage selling, and the close was lower than the opening. August trading at 7.82. The fail months were especially weak. No one can tell whether the squeeze in the early months is over or not, but unless crop accounts should become very bad, it seems likely that we shall have a lower market for the fall and winter deliveries. Less Disposition To Sell and More To Bity, and Wheat Closed Higher.

Chicago, April 23.—After seesawing a little during the first hour's trading today wheat developed much ilrimness and recovered a portion of the loss it sustained earlier in the week. The better feeling was quite plainly due to the removal of the selling pressure from the May option. Although there are many who cling to the belief that the long property in that delivery has not by any means been liquidated, it is the opinion of conservative people that most of the holders have either sold out and pocketed their losses or profits or have gone over into July. The fact was patent today, however, that there was less disposition to sell and more to buy. July wheat opened from 64% to 64%, sold between 63% and 64 and 64%c. closing at 64%c—½c@%c higher than yesterday. Cash wheat was firm and ½c higher.

Corn aroused no interest and attracted no attention. It was steady, but at the same time displayed due susceptibility to the weakness or strength of wheat. The Cincinnati Price Current, in its summary, made reference to a very promising outlook for the next crop of this grain. May corn opened at 29½c, sold between 29½c@—30c@30½c, closing at 29%c—½c higher than yesterday. Cash corn was steady.

Oats were dull and steady. According to The Clincinnati Price Current the prospects of the next crop of oats are encouraging. The intelligence had little if anything of effect on the market. The improvement in wheat served to sustain prices of oats. May oats closed unchanged from yesterday. Cash oats were generally steady.

Provisions—Not a great amount of business was transacted in product, but the feeling was firm. The hog market paused in its declining course, and provisions coincided with it by remaining steady. Some of the strength exhibited was derived from wheat. At the close May pork and May rigs were each 5c higher and May lard a shade higher.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, April 23.—Cotton advanced 6 to 9 points, but lost the improvement and closed only 1 point higher on the near months and 1 to 3 points power on the fall deliveries with the tone steady and the sales 189,600 boles.

Today's Features—The early Liverpool news today was stronger and prices accordingly advanced, but at the rise there was considerable realizing and a reaction followed. Prominent bulls who were good buyers withdrew their support. Then, too, rains were reported in sections of the Atlantic states, where dry weather has been complained of, and the later Liverpool news was less encouraging and contributed to the decline. But the tone of the market was not weak by any means, for there is a general disposition here to support prices. The exports from the ports were liberal, while the receipts were small at the ports and those at the interior towns were not excessive. Freight engagements for 10,600 bales of May for export were reported.

Weather and Crop Conditions. The Pa'ne-Murphy Brokerage Company received the crop reports by private wire

SOUTH CAROLINA. Charleston-City is full of merchants and planters from all parts of the state attending reunion of the Confederate Veterans. The average of their reports is that South Carolina will plant about as much as two years ago, but not more, and all complain of lack of moisture that will be quite serious unless we get rain very soon. No signs of it here at present. Spartanburg-Weather cloudy; indications of rain, which is greatly needed; planting completed; some increase, but not as much as people though for a fortnight ago. night ago. Chester—Needing rain badly; cotton coming up slightly; now cloudy.

Winnsboro-Clear and pleasant; some cotton coming up, but need rain badly.

Rockhill-Cotton coming up nicely; good rain will put it in fine shape; weather looks like good rain today.

Columbia-Cloudy; good rains yesterday evening. Lamson Bros, & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Pr.vate Wire to the Paine-Murphy Brokerage Company.
Chicago, April 22.—For a while this morning it looked as though there would be a repetition of the weakness that prevailed yesterday morning at the opening, as there appeared to be considerable long wheat for sale. St. Louis especially was a conspicuous seller, but the temper of the local crowd seemed rather inclined to the bull side for a reaction, and offerings were well absorbed. The market later advanced 1 cent per bushel. The heavy rains in the northwest have served as a strengthening influence, a number of advices saying that seeding is greatly delayed, especially in the Red river valley. The price current was rather bullish on the winter wheat prospects and the northwestern markets were much firmer than yesterday. The seaboard was also strong, the differences New York and Chicago permitting of shipment of wheat for export at a profit. The decline has brought some foreign buying, and if it should encourage interior millers to take hold again it would likely cause a further reaction. In corn the market has been steady. Receiving houses say for some reason there has been a falling off in country offerings. The trade was largely local. Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Macon—The weather is warmer than ever known before at this season. It is not only hot, but very dry; no rain has fallen since April 1st; one of the largest planters in Georgia received a letter this morning from his agent saying pretty good stand on first planting, but it is drying on account of heat and no moisture; have stopped plowing corn to plow the cotton to try to keep it from dying; the late planting will not come up until it rains; seed won't germinate; need rain on oats also; every day rain is delayed makes the crop that much later, and August receipts, of course, lighter. f course, lighter.

A M.ssouri message reports prospects so good in that state that deliveries of old wheat are incr-asing.

Advices from along the Michigan Central railroad between here and Detroit say that wheat looks as well as it could.

The Kentucky agricultural department says returns on winter wheat indicate a condition of about 50. On March 1st the condition was 64.

Northwestern receipts of wheat 287 cars, against 395 last week and 306 last year.

This wheat rally has been helped by July buying by Baldwin. Armour, Logan and Lindbloom. The motive with everybody is the rain in the northwest. There is some talk this morning of covering by Cudahy. I can see no evidence of it.

Primary receipts: Wheat, 302,000 bushels, against 266,000; shipments, 113,010, against 473,000. Receipts of corn, 269,000, against 205,000; shipments, 159,000, against 408,000.

In corn the market has been decidedly steady. Receiving houses say there has been for some reason a sudden falling off in country offerings.

Minneapolis wires: "It has commenced raining again in the Red river valley. At Grand Forks there was a heavy rain last night; no seeding done there yet; ground very wet and will not be in condition to seed for some time."

Total clearances of wheat and flour equal 270,000. Corn 81,000.

No special features to provisions, but the bulk of the trading is changing over May to July. The strength in wheat holds the market steady. the past week, although the weather has been cloudy most of the time. Farm work of all kinds making rapid progress.

| San Antonio—Weather perfect and prosects favorable for crop.

Bastrop—Weather since the report has been clear with showers enough to en-courage crops, could not be more favor-able; cotton in excellent condition.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Monroe—General situation favorable; moisture sufficient for present needs; outlook encouraging; two weeks ahead of last year.

Charlotte—Forty per cent planted; coming up nicely; had light rain on the 21st; rain would do good, still not suffering for rain; cloudy and cool; temperature 70.

THEY LOVED NOT WISELY. Each Waited for the Other To Return the Letters. A young man in San Francisco, accord-ing to The Post, of that city, and a young lady in San Jose were for a time very much in love with each other, and during that period each wrote the other a two-pound letter every day weighted down to the limit with kisses and expressions But they quarreled a couple of weeks ago.

"Send back my letters," she wrote.

"Return mine first," he replied.
"If you had been a gentleman you would not have waited for me to demand their turn." wrote she.

return," wrote she.

"Ethics for the use of women only don't go," he responded.

Then there came a pause in their correspondence. The young man wanted his letters very badly, for he knew he had made a fool of himself in every line of every letter. The young lady wanted hers because any one would think she was crazy to fall in wove with such a fool and brute.
"Send my letters on April 5th, and I'll send yours the same date, so we will both get them at the same time," wrote he. "All right," she answered. Each waited to see if the other would really act in good faith and send the letters, so neither received them. "A man who has so little regard for nis word," etc., wrote she.

"A woman who would deliberately attempt such a confidence game," etc., re-

There was another pause in the correspondence during which both tried to de-vise some way of effecting an exchange. The idea of a third party occurred to both, but was abandoned. The intermediary might read the letters. Finally the young man decided to go after them. He effected the exchange, and now the correspondence has been resumed.

respondence has been resumed.
"You know, dear little sweetheart, that I was just teasing you," wrote he.
"You horrid boy, to treat me so. I have a notion never to love you again," ana notion never to love you again," answered she, and there will soon be another stack of two-pound letters to exchange.

Beyond the Century Mark. From The New York Commercial Advertiser. Surrounded by her five generations, which include about 142 relatives and many octo genarian and nonagenarian friends, "Aunt" Hannah Chard recently celebrated the anniversary of her 107th birthday at the home of her seventy-year-old son, Joel, in Ferrel, Gloucester county, New Jersecy. "Aunt" Hannah was one of the first to be up at the home of her son that day. She lit her pipe as usual, and was about the house for hours before some of her younger descendants put in an appearance for breakfast. She has but two children left out of her She has but two condreh let out of her family of twelve. The other one beside Joel is William, who lives at Port Norris, and is sixty-six years of age. Jackson, aged sixty-one years, another son, died lest fall. The woman has thirty-two grandchildren, ninety-two great grandchildren and sixteen great great grandchildren. The fine weather caused persons to come from miles to congratulate the woman, who s said to be the oldest woman in the

"Aunt" Hannah is strong in mind and limb, and does not appear but about half her actual age. She was born in Brandyher actual age. She was born in Brandy-wine, Chester county, Penn., and her father was Peter Mildeberger, captain of a man-o'-war, who died when she was an infant. ago, when he was ninety-one years of age.

Mrs. Chard remembers distinctly the excitement incident to the war of 1812. Sitting in a big arm chair, with her pipe between her teeth, she can tell stories for hours about the early history of New Jersey, and her mind is remarkably clear. She darns, sews and prepares the meals, and she it was who looked out for the welfare of her guests today.

OFFICE OF COMMISSIONERS ROADS AND REVENUES, FULTON COUNTY, GEORGIA, Atlanta, Ga., April 8, 1896. Notice to Architects.

CAPITAL, $400,000.

Notice to Architects.
The Commissioners of Roads and Revenues for Fulton County invite from architects competitive plans with specifications and estimates of cost for the new jail to be built in this city. It is to be understood that designs are wanted for a model jail, complete in all its appointments. Each architect submitting designs must name a lump sum price in dollars for his fee, including all working and detail drawings that may be required for the full and final building of the structure, together with all additional drawings and details for such modifications as may be required by the commissioners to meet the assumed necessities of the county, in case his design is accepted. The structure to be planned for an executive department, a jailer's home and a prison department, consisting of about 335 single cells, and all other accessories. The lot has a frontage of 105 feet 6 inches on Butler street, and extends back 250 feet. The front line is at an angle with the side line of 107 degrees 15 minutes, opposite lines being parallel. Competition will close at 12 o'clock on Saturday, the 16th day of May, 1896, at which hour all plans must be delivered to the clerk for consideration of the commissioners.

For further information apply to Forres For further information apply to Forest Adair, chairman department public buildings, or to Grant Wilkins, superintendent of construction. The right to accept, modify or reject any or all plans is reserved by the commissioners.

NEWS OF THE ROADS

The Southern Is Putting in 20,000 Tons of Heavy Rails.

IMPROVEMENTS IN PROGRESS

A Great Scandal in the B. and O., but the Names of the Parties Are Kept Secret.

Vice President Baldwin, of the Southern, came in yesterday on a special train. He and Chief Engineer Hudson spent two nours out at the new shops and then Mr. Baldwin visited the traffic offices in the Equitable building. He has been on the go for the past ten days. This is our busy season," he remarked yesterday afternoon. "This is the time of year when we spend the money which we are busy the rest of the year making." The Southern is putting in 20,000 tons of new steel rails this spring. This steel weighs seventy-five and eighty pounds. on the Atlanta and Charlotte division. The rest of the steel rails will be distributed around over the system. This one item of new rails will cost the company $600,000 before they are put on the ties. Stone ballast is being put in rapidly on the system, but special attention is being paid to the line from here to Washington. All the rail above Charlotte is of seventy-five and eighty-pound steel. When the heavier rail is substituted for the light steel now on the road the Southern will have a line "right up to de limit."

The Southern's shops are busy with new and repair work. Rolling stock is being put in high condition. New shops have are going up at Salisbury.

Mr. Baldwin will leave at noon today. SCANDAL IN B. AND O.

Somebody Has Been Milking It, and the Question Is Who?

There is a great scandal in the Baltimore and Ohio affairs. Investigation shows evidence of stealing, but the gossips are mysterious about who got the money. One thing which is considered more than suspicious is the fact that the floating debt was increased during President Mayer's regime of eight years from $3,500,000 to $16,000,-000. That occurred between the years 1888 and 1896. In addition to this about $15,500.-000 of securities were disposed of, but the company did not get the benefit. It is alleged that from the total sum a great amount, probably $3,000,000, has been great amount, probably $3,000,000, has been taken from the company without giving any value whatever therefor.

It is also said that so far there have been discovered no records of these most important transactions during the administration of Mr. Mayer, and it is alleged that either no books concerning them were kept, or that they have been placed where the committee has not been able to see them. Upon learning this state of affairs, the members of the committee decided that the whole truth must be brought out, and they have determined to sift the matter to the bottom, let the blame fall where it may.

It is stated that no one who is cognizant of what the committee's views on the mat-ter are believes that ex-President Mayer profited to the extent of a dollar by what took place as the result of the deals made, or that he knew what really was going on. It is not claimed that the twelve and a half It is not claimed that the twelve and a half millions of increase of floating debt represents the loss of that amount by the Baltimore and Ohio, but it is stated to be the opinion of the members of the reorganization committee, as it is also alleged to be the belief of bankers who are conversant with Baltimore and Ohio affairs, that in the neighborhood of $3,90,000 has gone into the pockets of parties who were in no

Morgan & Co., but Brown Bros. & Co., Speyer Bros. and one of the large trust also interested, and each takes its turn in coming forward with the necessary funds.

The Washington Star says: "A few weeks ago there was an impression that the Baltimore and Ohio receivers would make some sort of a deal by which the Wabash road, through George Gould, would come to the relief of the Baltimore and Ohio, but, much as this plan would have pleased certain large holders of Baltimore and Ohio stock, the idea has, it is said, been abandoned.
Those who know what is going on in railway circles say, as was predicted several months ago, that the consolidation of the Baltimore and Ohio and Southern Railway Companies is a foregone conclusion, and, except that physical means have not been provided for the transfer of trains between the two lines around Washington, the union of interests of both roads is already an accomplished fact.

"A member of he latter committee stated "A member of he latter committee stated yesterday that the published reports since 1838 made to the stockholders of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company do not furnish much of the information that is now requisite in order to devise a plan of reorganization which can be recommended as promising lasting benefit, and as just to the holders of bonds and stocks concerning the operations of the company during the past seven years, and it is obvious that if any plan were based upon the present condition of the company without obtaining full and accurate knowledge of the causes which have been operating throughout those seven years, and have finally resulted in the present disaster, such plan would not only be rash and incomplete, but likely itself to misfortune in the future.

An Appealing Statemest.

An Appealing Statemest. "The bare facts that from 1888 to 1895, as shown by the annual report of the com-pany, the rolling equipment not included in the car equipment trusts decreased in value $1,820,953, the engines decreased in number from 584 to 502, and the cars of all classes were in the aggregate 4,98 less in number in 1885 than they had been in 1888, while during the same period the cost of road only increased to the extent of about $360,000, are of themselves sufficiently important and significant."

Miss Mary Garrett has withdrawn her support from the Baltimore reorganization committee and transferred her $1,500,060 of stock to the New York committee. It is predicted that the Johns Hopkins university stock and other large holdings will follow Miss Garrett's. The truth of the matter is that the New York crowd has the money and the Baltimore committee cannot manage the finances of the system. It is probably the old story of the Richmond Terminal properties. No reorganization committee could do anything until Mr. Morgan said ready. Several attempts were made, but they all failed until Mr. Morgan took hold. This is the case with the Baltimore and Ohio. The New Yorkers will freeze the Baltimoreans out unless the latter join in with the former.

Non-Observance of Rules. Non-Observance of Ruies.

The Norfolk and Western has discharged, six of its oldest passenger trainmen. Some of them had been with the company for twenty-five years. They are: Engineers R. E. Hooper and M. P. Kidd, Conductors Frank Stanley, Ed Galloway, J. B. Bonham and Frank T. Blanchard. "Non-observance of the rules" was the cause assigned. The company is going to be more strict, it being claimed that most of the bad accidents on the line have been due to neglect.

A call has been issued for the eighth annual convention of railroad commissioners, to be held in Washington, May 19th. All the railroad commissioners from the various states have been invited, as well as the members of the Association of American Railway Accounting Officers. Papers will be read on the following subjects: "Railway Statistics," "Uniform Classification," "Protection and Public Interests During Railway Labor Contests," "Regulation of State and Interstate Electric Railways," "Powers, Duties and Actual Work Accomplished by the Several State Railroad Commissions During the Year," "Government Control and Government Regulation of Railways," "Safety Appliances," "Pooling of Freights and Division of Earnings."

First Pullman Porter Dead.

First Pullman Porter Dead.

Chicago, April 23.—The first sleeping car, porter is dead. He was John Mitchell, and he was with the Pullman company over thirty years. He began his service as porter on The Poineer, the first sleeping car ever built—the foundation of its inventor's vast wealth. The old Pioneer, on which Mitchell began his career as porter and conductor, is now stored in one of the big factory buildings at Pullman. He watched the development of the sleeping car from that rude original to its present state of perfection and luxury. Mitchell was born in slavery in Alabama fifty-eight years ago. His mother managed to work out her emancipation and that of her child. She came north with her pickaniuny long before the war and settled in Chicago. During the many years he ran between Chicago and Omaha on the Burlington road and Chicago and St. Louis on the Alton, he met nearly all the prominent men in the country. He claimed a speaking acquaintance with General Grant, General Sherman and General Sheridan. He knew governors, senators and representatives by the score. There is scarcely a man of any prominence in Chicago that he did not know by sight. He had many souvenirs of his overnight acquaintances with celebrities. He was prouder, however, of the six stripes which adorned his coat sleeves, each stripe representing five years' service with the company.

The joint traffic managers have suspended the rules in the case of the Grand Trunk in order to allow it to compete with the Canadian Pacific in all traffic originating and terminating at points in Canada and passing to, from or through Toronto. This ruling does not apply to import traffic, on which a special concession was recently made, nor to the traffic competed for by the Michigan Central west from trunk line limits.

The payroll of the Pennsylvania railroad averages $100,000 a day. The company owns 3,400 locomotives, 141,000 cars: controls 9,000 miles of road and has 226 barges and other water craft. Its railef fund numbers 52,000 members, has distributed $6,000,000, and is now paying out in benefits about $2,000 a day.

Yesterday a very interesting letter was eccived from Miss Alice Tucker, the lady through whose influence Diaz was con-When Diaz was quite a young nan he came to America, not through any desire on his part, but through circumstances over which he had no control. It was during one of the Cuban outbreaks that he came near being captured by the Spanish. He escaped by floating off into the ocean on a plank, where he was found by a ship bound for New York.

Diaz staid in Brooklyn and stopped at the same hotel at which Miss Tucker was staying. He could not speak English, and made very few acquaintances among the people staying at the hotel.

A short time after his arrival in this ountry he was taken sick with pneumonia. For a long while he lay in a very critical condition and finally the doctors gave him up. When Miss Tucker heard that the young Cuban was sick, likely to die, and was not a Christian and was in a strange land without friends, her heart went out to him and she visited him, taking with her the New Testament. She read to him for hours at the time and prayed for him. He understood not a word that she said, and inquired in the best way he could why she was talking to herself. She told what she was doing, but he couldn't comprehend it. When he at last recovered he took the Bible with him and tried to read it. Finding that this was impossible he bought him one that was written in Spanish.

Thus it was that the man who is now in a Spanish prison and who has the sym-pathy of a nation was converted. Miss Tucker had previously written to Dr. Tichenor asking him whether or not she should go to Cuba. She was advised to go and this is the letter that she writes:

"Boston, Mass., April 16, 1896.—Dear Dr. Tichenor: Your letter just received, and there are not words to express our 'sorrow.' I was not much surprised, as I felt all was not well for some time, as I have not been able to get word to and from the island. What can we hope for? It seems to me our only hope is with God, that by His mighty power He will overrule those who have this matter in charge to our brother's deliverance. It may seem foolish to ask, as there are so many grand and willing women on the island, but is there one thing that I can do? If so, be free to tell me. Your letter I have sent to one of our prominent business men of Boston, Mr. J. S. Mayne, furniture company, on Canal street who is in full sympathy with the work, jand has helped it in many ways, my purpose being to raise a fund through the northeast churches.

"You have our prayers. Our hearts are heavy, but we will hope and pray. Thanking you for the letter, Yours truly, "ALICE TUCKER."

GAME AT 3.30 O'CLOCK SHARP. The Atlantas went down before Montgomery, the leaders of the association, Nearly if not quite fifteen hundred people saw the game, and it was a game worth seeing-a game every one enjoyed, notwithstanding the fact that Atlanta lost. Swift and quick was the work from the time Fields came up first until McDade made the last out of the game and closed the last possible chance Atlanta had to make the fight closer.

Only one hour and thirty minutes were consumed in the play and that of itself shows the rushing, rapid work the men did. Only one error was made, that by Turner in center field, and that alone indicates the article of ball put up.

the game with an apparent desire and an open determination to win. At no time was there any lagging by any one, but throughout the nine innings every player had his shoulder right up against the color. No backing was shown on that field, neither did any one manifest a de-sire to shirk any work that came his way. On the contrary every man went for every-thing in sight and went quickly and

THE PELICANS WIN.

Phelan Was Sick and Strouther's Men Lost the Game.

Columbus, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—By s score of 14 to 3 the New Orleans ball team defeated the Columbus nine at Wildwood park this afternoon.

The game was an uninteresting one except at one point in the fourth inning, when a ray of hope for the home team appeared to dawn. The contest was witnessed by several hundred Columbus fans, who were enthusiastic at first, but who grew somewhat listless after the locals had scored a few goose eggs, and when it became apparent that the Pelicans would win easily. It seemed that luck of Strouthers's men on the home diamond had deserted them and then the Crescent City crowd out-played them on all sides.

For the first three innings Columbus scored goose eggs, but one man, Carroll, getting as far as the third bag. In the fourth inning Williamson and Hall made a run, each being brought in by made, however, and that in the ninth in-

The Idea To Preserve the Exposition Buildings Generally Indorsed.

THIS CAN BE ACCOMPLISHED

A Feasible Suggestion from a Prominent Exposition Man.

Captain Robert Lowry Discusses the Matter and Says It Is a Good Thing. What Others Say on the Matter.

The question of retaining the exposition buildings and preserving the grounds is beginning to assume definite shape. The directors of the Cotton States and Internationa Exposition Company, the stockholders of the old Piedmont company, the city officials and hundreds of citizens are discussing the matter. It is probable that in a day or two some definite plan will be fixed upon, and the question finally set-

The idea presented by The Constitution has met popular indorsement everywhere. President Collier, Mr. S. M. Inman, Captain James R. Wylie, Colonel W. A. Hemphill, Mr. B. W. Walker, Mr. Jack Spalding and many others prominently connected with the expositions of the past have taken up the cause. It is beginning to be felt that within the next five years there will be a unanimous demand for another exposition suitable to the situation as it then exists. In view of the proposed sale and destruction ument to Atlanta's enterprise and which can serve no other than exposition pur-poses, it is considered by these men a great lack of foresight to loose them

One of the most feasible and popular plans presented to preserve them is for the holders of the bonds for which they were mortgaged to buy them in, lease the Piedmont grounds from the old company and keep the buildings intact. The fixed charges of the old company, consisting of its bonded indebtedness and taxes, does not excede $4,000 per year. If these buildings were bought in by the holders at $4,000 per year the entire outlay would not exceed $40,000 to preserve the present status for that length of time. It is proposed that this could be reduced by co-operation with the Consolidated in establishing different schemes of amusement and different attractions there.

The result would be when the time came for holding another exposition the price of one of these buildings would more than recoup the entire outlay and the parties could not only save themselves, but make a handsonic profit and render great service to the city and to the state.

It is said that the old company would agree to this by making the arrangement to sell off some of their frontage as the market developed, these sales not to interfere with the buildings and general features of the park.

This is the plan generally approved by holders at $4,000 per year the entire out-terfere with the buildings and general features of the park.

This is the plan generally approved by the most influential exposition men.

"I am in favor of this plan," said one of the best known directors in the recent exposition, and a strong factor in previous enterprises. "Atlanta owes her condition now to the series of expositions held in the past years. The force of the city is due to the expositions of 1881, 1887, 1889, 1891 and 1895."

These holders of bonds might form a new company and have stock payable in yearly installments so as to meet accruing charges. This could be generally supported by people interested in the hotels, the railroads and all beneficiaries of expositions. and all beneficiaries of expos The new Piedmont Driving Club could also be induced to come in, I have no doubt. I think the plan should be carried through at

Colonel W. C. Glenn was seen on the subject and was heartily in favor of preserving Piedmont park as it now stands, with additional improvements necessary to make it a still more attractive resort. "It is ridiculous," said he, "to think of tearing down those buildings and selling them for lumber. There ought to be a more thorough appreciation of our great show among our citizens. Besides, Atlanta needs a first-class park, and there is no more beautiful spot in the city than the old Piedmont property. These buildings are the monuments to the crowning success of Atlanta and the south, and the citizens should unite in a general movement to preserve them. "I think it would be best for the city to rithink it would be best for the city to purchase the grounds and open them to the public. If this can't be done, a stock company ought to be organized and I believe the investment would prove a valuable one in the long run. I think the buildings should be preserved at all hazards."

Wants the City To Buy. Mr. D. H. Livermore was seen in his of-fice yesterday afternoon, and is heartly in favor of the preservation of the buildings favor of the preservation of the buildings and grounds.

"I think," said he, "that the city or state should buy Piedmont park and use it for future expositions. In the northern cities state fairs are held almost every year, and if the same plan could be followed here, it would result in incalculable good to the future interests of Atanta. Such an institution would cause a radical improvement in the agricultural interests of Georgia.

"Those buildings could be utilized in many ways. A one-half mile race track could be made out of the gardens and the structures could be made agtractive in many ways. If the city has not the money, let her issue bonds on the park and pay for it in that way. It would be a great mistake to tear down the buildings."

Captain Lowry Talks.

Captain Lowry Talks. Captain Lowry had just returned from New York when seen yesterday, but was not too tired to talk to express his approval of the plan now on foot to preserve the buildings.

"I want those buildings preserved," said he, "and I think the city made a great mistake in not purchasing the property from the exposition company. We offered the park at an exceedingly low figure, and I think the investment would have proved a gcod one. I don't care whether the city buys the park now or not.

"I think 'he exposition company ought to retain the park as an investment. There is plenty of room for residence lots, after a portion of the grounds had been set-apart as a public park, and I believe a good sum of money could be realized in this way."

Opinion of Judge Van Epps.

Judge Howard Van Epps was most enthusiastic for the preservation of the buildings as they now stand.

"Atlanta," said he, "should be too proud of her recent triumph to see the last evidence swept away. I have traveled a great deal here lates, and Atlanta has made a profound impression on the whole country by her pluck and energy so recently exhibited. That park is so closely enterwoven with the interests of our city, that no particule Atlantians should hesitate to use his influence for its preservation.

"When Chicago saw the White City with all its splendor and magnificence swept away, there were men who wept, and the whole city presented a funeral appearance. The citizens felt that the world's fair was a potential factor in the advancement of the city, and as the world's fair was to Chicago, the Cotton States and International exposition should be to Atlanta.

"I am of the opinion that the city should buy the park. I do not know whether it would prove a good investment or not, but sentiment is usually the steam that propels civic machinery, and I do not think money should be the first consideration. I say let the park be preserved." Opinion of Judge Van Epps.

A STOCK COMPANY MAY BE ORGANIZED

"Would Be a Disgrace." "Would He a Disgrace." said Mr.
Clarence Knowles yesterday, "to allow those buildings to be torn down. There ought to be public spirit enough in Atlanta to prevent such a thing. If the city won't buy the park, let a canvass be made for a public subscription and I believe in this way enough money could easily be raised.
You can't use any expression too strong for me in favor of the preservation of the park."

Judge Kontz Talks. Judge E. C. Kontz was also very enthu-dastic for the preservation of the build-slastic for the preservation of the boardings.

"It will be a mistake," said he, "to tear away those buildings for Atlanta will surely need them in the future. It is more than probable that we will hold another exposition in the next five years, and then we will already have the foundation, thereby saving hundreds of thousands of dollars. There ought to be enough public spirit in Atlanta to save the park, and I believe the proper way to proceed is to organize a proper way to proceed is to organize a syndicate and purchase the grounds to be

Has a New Idea.

Has a New Idea.

Mr. W. S. Bell was seen yesterday afternoon and he was greatly in favor of preserving the buildings and offered an entirely rew plan for this end.

"I do not see any necessity for buying the grounds or the buildings. Let an agreement be made between the exposition company for the rental of the park as it is for special occasions, and this would not involve any great expense. If the coming exposition company, or chautauqua or convention would agree to pay the Piedmont company a good sum for the use of the grounds I don't see why such an arrangement could not be made."

Many others seen yesterday expressed Many others seen yesterday expressed themselves with equal emphasis.

West Point, pt. cl'dy | 86 | 64 | .06 Hottest in Years.

The low area which was central yesterday morning over the Missouri valley, still occupies that region. This low barometer caused a rise in temperature in all districts to the east of it yesterday. The maximum temperature in Atlanta was 89 degrees, which was 5 degrees warmer than the preceeding day. This unusually high temperature of 89 degrees for April, has occurred twice so far this month. This warm weather is something unusual, for from the records of the weather bureau, which run back seventeen years, nothing like it has occurred in that period. The highest record before this was 88 degrees, which occurred on the 12th and 29th of April, 1887 and 1894, respectively.

TEXAS COLONEL CONQUERS A

When tobacco has a hold on a man he has but one hope—No-To-Bac—which has been the salvation of over 300,000 such cases, and is curing thousands every day. If the tobacco victims will but know what it is to be once more firm of step, bright of eye, full of energy, magnetism and vital force No-To-Bac will eradicate the tobacco habit from the vices of mankind. Hear what Colonel McClary has to say of his glorious victory, caused by No-To-Bac's timely appearance on the battlefield:

"Bonham, Tex. August 1, 1895.—Gentlemen: Permit an old, broken-down confederate to give his experience in the use of No-To-Bac. June 1st, last, I bought one box of it from John Peeler, druggist, to try as an experiment. I quit the use of tobacco instanter. I took the box of tablets in tendays, taking eight per day. Now, for the result: For two months (June and July) I have had little desire for tobacco. I now loathe and detest it—hate it! I am 68 years of age—smoked and chewed at the same time regularly for about 20 years. Have been a regular tobacco chewer for 50 years.

No-To-Bac will do it for you, quickly, easily, permanently, if you will only do your share. Begin today. You take no risk whatever, for you buy from your own druggist under absolute guarantee to cure. Get our booklet, "Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away," written guarantee and free sample, mailed for the asking. Address The Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

Aldermen Concur in the Acceptance of the Venable Proposition.

IS NOW IN THE MAYOR'S HANDS

Divergence of Opinion as to What He Will Do.

HE HAS FOUR DAYS IN WHICH TO DECIDE

Venable Bros. Ready To Begin Work on the Proposed Structure on the Old Capitol Site.

The aldermanic board unanimously concurred in the acceptance of the Venable Bros. city hall proposition at its meeting yesterday afternoon. Not a dissenting voice was heard when Mayor Pro Tem Hirsch called for the vote on the question

Today the acceptance paper will be hand ed to Mayor Porter King and he will again have before him an action of the council looking to the erection of a handsome new hall for the transaction of the public business. Just what disposition the mayor will make of the matter is not known. There is a divergence of opinion as to whether or not he will veto or approve the paper. The Venable offer, if approved by the mayor and made a law, insures for the city a magnificent ten-story Georgia gran-ite building on the corner of Marietta and rsyth streets, the lot famous as the old capitol site. The structure will be erected on the most modern lines and it is designed to equal anything of the kind in the south. The specifications of the proposition are that the building is to be finished in a style and manner equal to that of the Equitable building, and that the building will be an ornament to the city there is no doubt. Venable Bros. stand in readiness to begin work on the building within a very short time after the contract is let to them, if such a final settlement of the matter is They have a large quantity of stone which will be used in the erection of the building already out at their Stone Mountain and Lithonia quarries and the work will not be delayed if the contract is made. The agreement on the part of the Messrs. Venable is that the building is to be finished and ready for occupancy by June 1st, next year. In order to com-plete the structure within that time it will be necessary to begin made. necessary to begin work at an early date and put a large force of hands to work on it, both of which the owners propose to

Work for 500 Men,

If the building is erected on the lines described in the proposition to the city, which, of course, it will be if the offer is approved by the city, a large number of workingmen will secure employment at once and continue to work for a long time. And the full force of stone cutters and lahorers at the granite quarries will be kept at work all the summer, materially aid-ing the workingmen of this section in passing the summer months with some-thing to do. Mr. Venable thinks that the erection of the building will give employment to at least 500 men, and that fac was a strong one in inducing him to make the proposition to erect the structure. He thinks that building should be encouraged at this time and it is stated that if the new building is erected other property owners in the vicinity will begin work in the near future on projects almost equally advantageous to the city.

Others Will Build There. houn and the Messrs, Kontz contemplate the erection of buildings on their property adjoining the old capitol lot, and that if the new building is erected on it at least two additional structures will go up within a block of the postoffice, making that vicinity one of the handsomest and most valuable in the city.

Gist of the Proposition. The proposition to be acted on by the mayor gives the city the use of 15,000 square feet of space at an annual rental of $5,000. The space is to be leased for one year, with the privilege of two, three, the proposition of $5,000 and $5,000. four or five. If the city purchases a lot four or five. If the city purchases a lot and erects a building in the meantime the Venable contract can be canceled at once. The designated space is to be arranged according to the suggestion and wish of the proper council committee to be appointed to look after that feature of the contract.

Should the city desire to purchase the building and lot at any time during the will be carried to Darien tomorrow.

life of the lease the ground can be purchased at $1,150 per front foot, the Marietta street front in contemplation. That figure is said to be reasonable, in the view of the fact that a lot in the vicinity sold for $1,400 per front foot. The building can be purchased at ctual cost, the same to be ascertained by a committee on the part of the city making an inspection of the books and contracts. ROAD PURCHASERS DIDN'T PAY

They Defaulted When It Came To Meeting the Second Payment-Tells of a Gruesome Sight.

Coupled with the features of the proposition stated, the city will have the right to use the space indicated free of any charge whatever, provided the city will exempt the property from taxation. By that figuring Mr. Hugh Inman says that the city will get its public hall offices for about $1,000 per annum, the very best proposition yet made, he says.

Judge Anderson, city attorney, says that the city cannot agree legally to exempt any property from taxation and that feature of the Venable offer is therefore out of consideration. Captain R. J. Lowry who has been in New York for several days looking after the Thirteen Against Six.

Mayor King has four days in which to approve or disapprove the accepted proposition. In the council seven of the thirteen members voted in favor of the acceptance. In the aldermanic board every member of the body voted for the offer, making a total of thirteen members of the general council who are hopeful that the proposition to provide the city with a new hall will be accepted. They argue that it is a case of thirteen against six, and that the majority should rule. trouble which arose out of the failure of the purchasers of the Marietta and North Georgia railroad to meet the second pay ment of $100,000, which was due on April 15, returned home yesterday.

He was accompanied on his trip by Mrs. Lowry, Mrs. Joseph Thompson and Miss Joan Clarke.

"There is nothing new in the railroad matter," said Captain Lowry yesterday, "that has not been published already. "The respite granted Wednesday by Judge Newman allowing the Atlanta, Knoxville and Northern Construction Company ten days more in which to raise the second payment of $100,000 was given with the positive assurance that the money would paid on May 5.

"Unless this is done the original payment of $92,000, made on the day of the sale last November, will be forfeited. "I was in the office of our New York by The Illustrator Company in their souvenir volume, "The Cotton States and International Exposition and South Illuscorrespondent on the day that the second payment was due and I waited there until the closing hour in the hope of seeing it paid, but it did not turn up."

Mr. Bradlee Strong, the mayor's son, gave a theater party to Mrs. Thompson, Miss Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Lowry, all of which was very much enjoyed, but the one unique and never-to-be-forgotten feature of Captain Lowry's latest trip to New York is his visit to the "Cabaret du Neant.

Several ladies, personally known to Miss Cleveland, left their cards at her hotel, "When I entered the room I was rather surprised and everything weird and un-canny, for it was advertised as an amuse-

"There was a ghastly green light burning and coffins were strewn all over the floor, and men and women were drinking beer with the coffin lids for tables. "When the solemn waiters served a stein of beer they would make some cheerlady went below the freezing point and reful remark like: 'Drink hearty. This pint of beer is full of microbes and contains the seal of death.' Such remarks had a tendency to destroy my thirst, but peated efforts failed to make an impression. She appealed to "southern chivalry" to excuse her being molested. It is reported that Miss Cleveland has purchased a residence in Camden, thirty miles cast of Columbia. She expressed herself as pleased most of the frequenters of the place seemed to take no notice of the grewsome remarks of the waiter.

The Cabaret Explained. "The Cabaret du Neant is an illustration of the decomposition of the body after positively decline to surrender the cup at this time, and have so notified the Savannah managers and also Adjutant General Maybry.

Captain W. J. Foye, of the Thurston Riffes, was interviewed today by your correspondent.

"No," said he, "we shall not surrender the Galveston cup to the Savannah drill. Our reasons for this determination are substantially these: First, the Thurston Riffes were not challenged to participate in the Savannah drill in the regular way and in accordance with established rules under which we hold possession of the cup. Second, the Savannah affair is not a military drill in the strict sense, but by reference to their circulars it is evident at a glance that the alleged drill is more for a rifle contest than anything else; the military features simply having been added as an after thought in order to attract visitors.

"Rule 4, geverning the possession of the cup, reads like this: "The company holding the cup must be prepared to defend the possession and custody thereof upon receiving a challenge to that effect not more than fifteen days after the announcement of the interstate drill or encampment at which it is proposed to compete for said cup. This clause was utterly ignored by the Savannah people and we did not receive notice that the Rifles would be expected to compete at Savannah until the fifteen-day limit had expired three or four times over. We then looked into the matter of prizes offered and found them to be too insignificant for us to consider for a moment, inastronder the enter the control of the control cant for us to consider for a moment, inas-much as the expense of going to Savannah, the distance being great, would be very heavy upon our boys. As far as we can gather the Savannah drill is in no sense a regular competitive interstate drills of military companies. It is a local affair and controlled by men who know nothing about he rules and regulations pertaining to military drills. The many irregularities in their procedure looking to the securing of the Galveston cup are, within themselves, full justification for our declining to either compete in the drill or surrender posses-sion of the Galveston cup. I have written the southern people fully on the subject and am confident have made our contention plain. Our boys, however, are auxious to compete this year somewhere. They seriously object to the rigorous practice drill with no hope of entering prize contests. But we have determined that the Savannah people shall not have the cup and, of course, are prepared to defend our position at all hazards."

What General Mabry Says. Austin, Tex., April 23.—(Special.)—Yester-day General Mabry had a telegram from President William Garrard, of the Savannah drill, saying that he wired Captain Foye March 31st and received the reply: Foye March 31st and received the reply:

"Regret it is impossible to be there."

He also has a letter from Foye under date of April 1st confirming the dispatch of the day before. The captain of the Morton Cadets wires affidavit that he mailed in the presence of witnesses a formal challenge to the Thurston Rifles, General Mabry has wired Captain Foye to know if he will make affidavit that he never received the challenge. "If he makes such affidavit," said General Mabry, "I do not see what further steps can be taken." CAN GO TO WORK SOON MUNYON'S

Atlanta Telephone Company Will Be Given a Charter at Once.

TO CONSTRUCT A NEW SYSTEM

Bids To Be Advertised for To Repair Whitehall and Marietta Streets. Paving on Certain Sections.

The Atlanta Telephone Company, the new concern which proposes to construct and operate a system in the city, will soon be given the right to proceed with the work of establishing the plant. An ordinance granting the company a charter was passed by the council Monday and concurred in by the aldermanic board yesterday afternoon The matter is now in the hands of the mayor and he will doubtless approve the

The new company is given the right to construct and maintain a system of con-duits and wires and operate a telephone system. The system is to be established at once. The company proposes to begin work immediately and push to completion their plan of providing the city with com petition in the telephone business. And the company claims to be able to operate their plant and give the people much cheaper plant and give the people much cheaper service, equally as good as the present. The new company was organized a short time ago with Mr. Simon Baer as president. He is at the head of the big Eden Mills Company, of Douglasville, and is a capital-ist of high standing. Colonel Joe S. James, United States district attorney, is inter-seted in the company and he is the secreested in the company and he is the secre-tary and Treasurer. It was he who went before the council committee on telephones, electric lights and telegraph and explained the purposes of his company. He stated that the company had already secured more than two thousand subscribers and that the list is growing daily.

By the ordinance adopted by the council the new company will be given the right to construct conduits on various streets in the center of the city. The ordinance re uires that all telephone companies lay heir wires in conduits within the are limts and restricts the companies by requiring them to give bond for any damages that might result from tearing up the streets to put down the conduits. A bond to guarantee the good faith of the company with be given by one just preparing for business. The sum named in the ordinance is

When the question was taken up by the aldermen yesterday Alderman Howell of-fered an amendment requiring the compa-ny to begin the construction of their conduits from the central station to be selected. His purpose is to require the com-pany to show its good faith by commencing n the heart of town, exhibiting to the people that it proposes to do the work in a business manner, instead of beginning on the residence streets. The amendment was agreed to with the understanding that the company could go to work and make its contracts at once, the final action by the mayor, of course, contemplated.

Will Advertise for Bids. The aldermen concurred in a resolution for directing the commissioner of public work to advertise for bids for repairing Whitehall and Marietta streets. The reso Whitehall and Marietta streets. The resolution was passed by the council several weeks ago, but held up in the aldermanic board for some reason. It looks to the repairing of the paving on Whitehall street from Trinity avenue to the railroad tracks and on Marietta from the junction of Decatur street to the junction of Walton.

Yesterday a communication was read from Mayor King calling attention to the matter. It seems that there is some question as to whether or not Venable Bros. hold the right under their contract with the city to do the repair work and the mayor suggested to the aldermen that some disposition be made of the matter. The board decided to concur in the advertising reso decided to concur in the advertising reso-lution and leave the work to be bid for by any who desire to do so.

CAN IT GO TO CHICAGO

Mr. Nesbitt Raises an Important Question Concerning a Display.

IS ANXIOUS TO EXHIBIT IT

But the Attorney General Says a Special Act Will Be Necessary Before It Can Leave the State.

Commissioner of Agriculture Nesbitt is very busy working on the exhibit Georgia is to make at Chicago. As the time grows near the task of getting together the minerals, grains, woods and so forth becomes a serious matter and one that will necessitate a world of Commissioner Nesbitt has an idea about an exhibit that is a good one, but it looks now as if he is to be defeated in carrying out his plan and will have to find some other way.

some other way.

The exhibit of minerals and forestry that Georgia made at the Cotton States and International Exposition is a fine one, one that it took months to gather together and one that it will take time and money to duplicate. In fact, it cost something over $7,000 or $8,000.

Now Mr. Nesbitt's plan is to take this exhibit and send it to Chicago. It will not cost the state one penny, and the benefits to be derived from such a course are evalent. Everybody concerned be-lieves this to be the best solution of the matter and all are perfectly willing for the exhibit to be used in that manner, but there is a very large obstacle in the

The law that created the appropriation for the exhibit made at the exposition provided that at the close of the fair the exhibit should be returned to the state capitol here and kept there on display. capitol here and kept there on display. So now this valuable lot of stuff is hidden away somewhere in a room at the capitol, and there it must_sty until a new law can be made to get it out again. Mr. Nesbitt said vesterday that it did look hard that his was the case, but that the attorney general said the law could not be broken.

"That exhibit as it now stands," said Mr. Nesbitt, "will certainly not be of any benefit to Georgia or anybody else for that matter. It is plain that as it now stands it can never be the means of bringing any new settlers to the state, for they would have to first come here and find the ex-hibit before its existence could even be known. It is also evident that the farmers and residents of Georgia are not gong to make a careful study of it, so what

'Now, if this were installed at Chicago "Now, if this were installed at Chicago it would be of vast benefit to our state and in time be worth three times its cost.
"I was hopeful and am yet, of getting it but they tell me now there is no law for it and it can't go without one. I was down in south Georgia last week and saw many parties interested in the matter and they all said that we must have that exhibit and I am trying mighty hard to put it to this use." Nesbitt is very much in ear-

Colonel Nesbitt is very much in earnest over the matter.

"Why," said Attorney General Terrell when asked about the matter, "we have no more right to take that exhibit away from here any more than we have a right to go and take two or three hundred books out of the state library. It was the law that put it here, and it must be the law that will take it away. I am sorry that it can't be done, but it is evident that it cannot be done without legislation."

In the meantime Commissioner Nesbitt is still hopeful and says a way must be found to get around the law.

THE DOCTORS' BARBECUE.

The Medical Convention To Be Entertained at Lithia Springs. The American Medical Association, during their stay in Atlanta, will be enter-tained at an old-fashioned Georgia barbe-cue, to be given at Lithia Springs by Mr.

E. W. Marsh.

This will be one of the biggest barbecues ever given in Georgia. All the visiting doctors and the members of the profession in Atlanta, making in all about 1,200, will attend. There will be carcases by the score and Brunswick stew without limit with all the other essential trimmings of a first-class 'cue. It will be a novel experience for most of the visitors, especially those from the northern states and from abroad. The doctors will be given an opportunity to test the virtues of the famous salt spring's water, though there will doubtless be liquids of other sorts on

The barbecue will be given on the 6th of May and Mr. Ware will have charge of the pits.

at any time for the next few days with a bland smile on his face get ready to go down in your trousers for a dollar. He wants to sell you a ticket to the police-men's annual picnic, which will be given at Indian Spring on the 7th of May. These annual excursions of the police force are for the benefit of disabled officers and of the wives and children of deceased policemen. It is a worthy cause, and the excursions are always a great success. The arrangements for the picnic this year were completed yesterday at a meeting of the committee in charge. A splendid orchestra has been engaged and other features for the comfort and amusement of the guests of the officers were arranged. Indian Springs is an ideal spot for a picnic, being within easy reach of Atlanta by rail. The tickets will be sold for $1, which will include fare on the dummy line from Flovilla to the Wigwam hotel, and everybody who has the price will be ex-pected to buy one of the little pasteboards. The officers hope to make the picnic this year surpass all previous efforts on this

Sunday morning he will fill the pulpit at the First Methodist church and Sunday afternoon he will preach at his favorite stamping ground, the Moody tabernacle. Of course, he will have a crewd. The experience of the few weeks that he was in Atlanta proves that. Much interest has already been arcused in his coming and it is the talk among the religious people of the city. the city.

The sermons Sunday will be in the in terest of the Orphans' home at Decatur This is a pet institution with Mr. Jones He has long shown a deep interest in it and has done much to advance its interests in a financial way. Oftentimes he has preached sermons and raised Marge purses in its behalf. His services Sunday, it need not be said, will draw large crowds. Dr. Warren A. Candler will also speak here Sunday. He will fill the pulpit at Trinity in the morning and his sermon will be devoted to the Orphans' home. The annual celebration of the orphans will occur at the home next Tuesday and it will be a great event. Many friends of the home from Atlanta will go out and spend the day with the orphans. It will be in the nature of a picnic.
